DUCE REGRETS VIOLENCE, BUT ACCUSES POPE

Demand for Apology Met With Charge Vatican Broke Treaty.

PIUS MAY ASK MORE SATISFACTORY REPLY

Exchange Is Believed to Have Paved Way for Ending Crisis.

Rome, June 9 (A.P.).—The Italian government made its formal reply to two notes of protest from Pope Pius XI today, expressing regret at violence toward the Pope and toward Catholics, but at the same time charging the Vatican with violation of the Lateran Treaty and the concordat.

The regrets were said to be in such a form that they can scarcely be called definite excuses.

The government failed to comply with the Vatican's demand for a formal apology. The reply set forth that the police are searching for the culprits responsible for the violence and promised that they would be punished.

Pope May Renew Apology Demand.

The Vatican, it was expected, will ask a reply more to its liking, but both in government and Vatican circles there was a feeling that things are on the mend. In any case, it was known definitely that diplomatic exchanges have fairly cleared the atmosphere.

The government's reply, in the form of a note, was delivered at the Vatican this forenoon by Count de Vecchi, Italian Ambassador to the Holy See. It was presented immediately to Pope Pius, but so far there has been no official expression regarding the Vatican's reaction.

It seemed certain, however, that the pontiff felt some disappointment, for shortly after reading the note he told a group of Roman pilgrims to pray for their country, because "what happened does not entitle the country to God's benediction."

The government's note is in two parts, the first, dealing with the Vatican's charges of violence, expresses regrets and explains the incidents were the result of "spontaneous outbursts" of youths who resented what Italy considered an encroachment on her own affairs. The note set forth the Italian version of the "facts," putting the occurrences in what the government considered their true light.

Treaty Breach Is Charged.

The second part of the note contains Italy's protests. It was asserted that the Vatican violated the concordat and treaty by allowing some parts of the Catholic Action organization to take on a character and pursue purposes that were political. It set forth that this constituted an invasion of Italian internal affairs and declared the political practices complained of were directed against the Fascist government.

Speeches by the Pope, which were referred to generally as "manifestations," also were described as violations of the treaty in that they constituted interference in Italian affairs. The note characterized these speeches as prejudgment of Italian affairs by a foreign power.

Although the note did not give the complete satisfaction for which the Vatican asked, it was said in diplomatic circles that its general nature was such that, coupled with the improved state of negotiations between the two powers, the worst of the situation appeared over. After some further exchanges, the diplomats, it was believed, will get down to the essentials of arranging a material settlement.

Dissension Delays Chinese Rebellion

Shanghai Business Leaders Appeal for Peace as Chiefs Wrangle.

Nanking, June 9 (A.P.).—Business leaders of Shanghai appealed to the nation for peace today as dissension among rebel leaders of South China delayed civil war against the Nationalist government.

Some 200 leaders of Shanghai appealed to commercial interests of the nation to attempt peaceable settlement, averting repetition of bloodshed, industrial stagnation and famine which many rebellions have brought upon China.

The discord among rebel leaders enabled Nanking officials to dispatch additional troops against bandit armies of the Yangtze Valley. The insurgent government set up in Canton was said to be torn by factional strife and mercenary demands for armed support.

Gens. Yen Hsi-Shan and Feng Yu-Hsiang, whose previous revolts against the government were settled sometimes with money and sometimes with battles, assumed important roles in the new uprising.

Former Opera Singer Is Forced to Sell Shop

Paris, June 9 (A.P.).—Ganna Walska, former opera singer, has closed her perfume shop in the Rue de la Paix and the stock and fixtures have been sold at public auction by direction of the local justice of the peace.

Mme. Walska, wife of Harold F. McCormick, of Chicago, opened the shop three years ago but it was hard hit by the slump in the luxury trades in the past six months.

Slaying of Students Denounced by Mexico

President Hoover has ordered a minute investigation into the slaying of Emilio Cortes Rubio (left) and Manuel Gomez, cousins of the Mexican president, who were shot after being halted by an Oklahoma deputy sheriff.

Full Inquiry Is Sought; Ortiz Thanks Hoover for Sympathy.

Mexico City, June 9 (A.P.).—President Ortiz Rubio today replied to President Hoover's message of regret over then slaying of the Mexican president's nephew and another Mexican student at Ardmore, Okla., yesterday, thanking him for his message and his assurance that the tragedy would be amply investigated.

At the same time Foreign Minister Genaro Estrada announced that through the Mexican embassy at Washington he had denounced the

13 ARRESTED IN POLICE WAR ON VAGRANTS

Confidential "List" Made of Persons Suspected Is Basis of Drive.

DOUTHITT DUE BEFORE GRAND JURORS TODAY

Sentence of $500 Fine or 180 Days in Jail Given in Warrantless Raid.

Washington's gaming offensive entered a new phase yesterday, as headquarters and precinct detectives, armed with information obtained in the last fortnight's intensive campaign, effected thirteen arrests under an original interpretation of the District's vagrancy law.

Although all but two of the so-called "vagrants" were freed almost immediately under $500 bond, there had been not let-up in the drive at a late hour last night. Indications were that only adverse rulings in Police Court this morning would checkmate the attack on this new salient.

For two weeks, it is known, police have been observing the movements of frequenters, "hangers-on" and persons associated in various capacities with establishments recently raided. From their observations a confidential "list" has been compiled which furnishes a basis for the new campaign.

Southitt Is Scheduled.

While police are concentrating on this frontier, the District grand jury is awaiting the appearance today of Harry N. Douthitt, editor of the Bluecoat, unofficial police publication, convalescing in Philadelphia from injuries received nearly two months ago when he was beaten by unknown assailants at his apartment here.

Douthitt has been subpensed to tell the grand jury what he knows about an "ice bill" he alleged is being paid the police by vice interests. District Attorney Leo A. Rover disclosed last night that he received a letter from Douthitt expressing some doubt whether his health will permit him to appear. Mr. Rover will present this letter to Justice Peyton

Los Angeles Flies Over Washington

Dirigible Picks Up and Later Releases Plane on Trip From Jersey.

Passing over Washington shortly after 9:30 o'clock last night, the Navy dirigible Los Angeles, on a training flight along the East coast, circled the city for more than half an hour before starting on the return trip to Lakehurst, N. J.

The giant dirigible left her home field at 6:30 o'clock, and when a few miles north of the air station, picked up a Navy plane piloted by Chief Aviation Pilot J. J. O'Brien. The plane was later released from a special dovetail gear, an apparatus which it had been planned to test over the metropolitan area of New York City, but weather conditions prevented.

With Commander Alger H. Dresel in charge, the dirigible continued to Washington, and after a short cruise over the city, returned to her hanger at Lakehurst. The passenger list included several newspapermen and naval officials, including Assistant Secretary of the Navy David S. Ingalls, Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, Capt. Arthur B. Cook and Commander R. P. Molten.

SLUMP ENDED, RISE ON WAY, KLEIN STATES

Assistant Secretary Says Cycle Hit Low Point Last January.

SWING, WHEN BEGUN, EXPECTED TO BE FAST

Official Fixes No Date for Uptrend, but Points to Slight Gain Already.

Chicago, June 9 (A.P.).—The depression in business has ended, Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, told the Radio Manufacturers' Association today.

In fact, he declared at an open meeting of the association, the first of its trade show week, that the low point was hit last January.

When the upward swing of the cycle would begin, he did not care to predict, but he pointed out that there has been somewhat of a rise since January, with business that month 34 per cent of normal, compared with 30 per cent in April.

Because of the fact that this depression came gradually rather than with the suddenness of those of the past, he looked for a rather speedy recovery.

Sharp Acceleration Expected.

"When the upward trend starts, it will be more sharply accelerated and certain than in any previous depression," he said. He continued that because reports of conditions were available only six weeks or more from the period on which they were based, "much of the crepe hanging is historical rather than hysterical."

In the past, he explained, business has taken from six to eleven months to get back on its feet. He used these facts only as an analogy rather than an attempt to base a prediction that the present depression has been concluded in view of the fact that six months have elapsed since January 1.

Turning to the radio industry and the part it played in the business world, he said:

"Your industry rendered valuable assistance in the great task of lifting American business out of the post-war collapse. You can again render an equal service in the present depression by conserving fully the great assets of vigor and resourcefulness which are so conspicuous in this young giant in the business world.

Recovery Declared Under Way.

"Our recovery, which happily is already definitely under way, can be most helpfully accelerated by any measures which you take to put your trading and production practices in the best of good order."

Turning to the question of overproduction, he told the radio men that their markets should be studied more closely. "Producers know their markets thoroughly, and consult disinterested opinions. They do not undertake expansion programs that burden them with white elephants in the shape of useless factory space," he asserted.

Dr. Klein, after Robert M. Sweitzer, representing Mayor Anton J. Cermak, had welcomed the delegates, said that any industry which planned to spend a million dollars for ginger ale and other forms of entertainment at its trade show, as pointed out by Mr. Sweitzer, was in an extremely healthy condition.

Interference Part Urged.

"President Morris Metcalf, of R. M. A., in a message to the members, suggested as a means of improving the industry better advertising scope, a statistical barometer to curb overproduction, and the formation of a patent interchange agreement.

BRIAND WARNS BERLIN PEACE MENACED, DEBT CUT OUT OF QUESTION

Brüening Pins Hope On Stimson, Mellon

Expects During Their Visits to Show Economic Crisis and Reparations Are Linked; Will Combat European Front Against America.

S. S. Europa (by radiophone to London), June 9 (A.P.).—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Dr. Julius Curtius, German foreign minister, are returning from the Chequers conference with renewed conviction of the importance of the part American public opinion will play in any attempt to reshuffle the reparations and war debt problems.

They are looking forward to conversations with Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, who will be in Europe this summer, and they are fully aware of the fact that economic problems have made both reparations and war debts the most unpopular topics imaginable in the United States.

The viewpoint of the heads of the German state was obtained in conversations in which they could not be quoted directly, as Downing street has placed its veto on public discussion of their conference with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary.

The Germans hope that a prostrate Germany, unable to purchase raw materials from America, will help convince Americans there is a connection between the economic crisis and reparations.

On one item their policy is adamant—under no circumstances will the Bruening government permit Germany to participate in any maneuver designed to bring Europe into a united front aginst America.

It is their belief that, if the Chequers talks accomplished anything, it was an accord between Britain and Germany on the necessity of full international collaboration in the economic crisis. There is no disposition toward the formation of hostile blocs.

Both German statesmen were de-

Activities of Hitlerites Constitute Menace, Deputies Told.

FRANCE WILL OPPOSE YOUNG PLAN REVISION

Rumblings of Discontent Over New Tax Burden Await Bruening.

Paris, June 9 (A.P.).—The recent "steel helmet" manifestations at Breslau have made it difficult to continue peace efforts with Germany, Foreign Minister Aristride Briand told the chamber of deputies today, in declaring that the government was opposed to any revision of the Young plan.

"There can be no question of revising the Young plan," Briand said, "since it has a definite character and contains in itself possibilities for Germany."

France, he said, would be on her guard against any attempt to lead her into an international conference for the revision of the reparations scheme and the Young plan, following the Anglo-German conversations at Chequers.

The foreign minister's speech quieted the turbulence of the deputies and resulted in a majority of 60 votes for premier Laval's government.

Regards Hitler as Menace.

Answering a hot fire of questions from his critics, Briand reiterated his faith in his attitude toward Germany, although he criticized such manifestations as that of the German steel-helmet organization, recently held at Breslau.

Such demonstrations, Briand said, made it difficult to continue peace efforts with Germany. "I have not ceased," he said, "to plead with the German government that it should halt such manifestations. The last was deplorable and regrettable.

"The disquieting thing about the Breslau incident is the state of mind of the individuals who massed on the Polish frontier shortly after the question of the Polish minorities had been discussed at Geneva."

Briand reminded the deputies, however, that "a Bruening government is preferable to a Hitler government, which might one day come into power."

Will Collaborate If Possible.

He conceded that there are Nationalists in Germany. "There are always several 'Germanies,' but the Nationalists are not in power. They are not the masters. As long as there is a possibility of collaboration with Germany I will take advantage of it."

The foreign minister denied hotly that as a result of the Chequers conversations France was going to stand the expense of a new revision of the reparations schemes.

"France can envisage," he said, "all the events in Germany with a calm and serene eye. It is sufficient to look at France's position on the map of Europe and the friendships with which she is surrounded. She can remain cool even when faced with unpleasant events."

He maintained, however, that the idea of peace had made undeniable progress in Germany. It should not be forgotten, he added, that "victory is on this side of the frontier and that the German people have been troubled by their economic situation which, to say the least, is sad."

Retains Right to Say "No."

"It is possible that during the London conversations Germany attempted to put forward her bad economic situation. That's her right. But our right, when anybody proposes anything contrary to France's interest, is to say no.

"The Young plan has been recently applied. There can be no question of revising it, since it has a definite character. It contains within itself possibilities for Germany. She will use them, perhaps—it is to her interest to do so.

"But from that to proceed to talk of a new international conference on the debt question is a long transition. Be sure that France's foreign minister will not let himself be pulled into anything."

The future of France and Germany, however, he said, lies in cooperation.

Upon the demand of Premier Laval, but without putting a question of confidence, the chamber decided by a vote of 312 to 252 to postpone the interpellation on foreign policy and the questioning of Briand personally. The

2 DEAD, 18 MISSING AS SUBMARINE SINKS

British Craft Poseidon Is Lost in Collision Off Chinese Coast.

London, June 9 (A.P.).—Two men are dead and eighteen missing as a result of a collision today which sank the Poseidon, one of Great Britain's largest and finest submarines, near Weihaiwei, on the north shore of the Shantung peninsula in China.

News of the catastrophe was conveyed to England by an admiralty announcement which said that the Poseidon was sunk in a collision with a merchant vessel, about 21 miles north of Weihaiwei. Five officers and 38 men of the ship's crew were saved, but two of those who were rescued died later. Eighteen were still missing tonight.

Three ships were on he scene of the collision tonight. They are the aircraft carrier Hermes and the fast modern cruisers Bernick and Cumberland.

Just how the Poseidon sank to her doom beneath the yellow waters of the China Sea, the laconic admiralty communique does not disclose. Even the name of the merchant vessel which collided with her has not been made public.

The names of the dead and missing were given, however, and the publication of the list cast Portsmouth into mourning. Most of the crew came from there and nearby dockyard towns.

King George V, in a note sent tonight to the commanders in chief at Portsmouth and Plymouth, conveyed his "deep sympathy" and that of the queen for the families of the dead and missing.

Apart from the grief of Britons at the loss of the men, the disaster to the Poseidon is a serious blow to the British navy. She was built in 1929, and with her sister ships Perseus, Pandora and Proteus, represented practically the last word in submarine construction technique.

Last winter the four vessels made an unescorted voyage of 15,000 miles to China to form a flotilla to replace the No. 1 class vessels at the China station.

This voyage was marred by a collision between the Proteus and the Pandora 80 miles off Gibraltar. Both ships were slightly damaged.

COURT TOLD PITTS TRIAL DATA FAKED

Edwards Tells of Exposing Papers to Acid to Obtain Old Appearance.

The Government's story of how G. Bryan Pitts and others "manufactured" documentary evidence for use in his defense in his trial for conspiring to embezzle several hundred thousand dollars, was shown yesterday when John H. Edwards, one of those convicted with Pitts, related before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage the origin of the documents.

Edwards, who is serving three years for his part in the case, was called upon to testify in the arraignment of Henry O. Hart, an employe of Pitts, who was arrested on a commissioner's warrant three weeks ago on charges of perjury, influencing another to commit perjury, and with bringing into the District false documents.

Edwards said that in September and November, 1930, at Pitts' palatial home in Palm Beach, and at Pitts' orders, he and Hart secured some bromic acid, dipped a piece of paper into it, and then placed it in a large can. Other documents that were to be used in the trial were then placed in the can, and the bromic acid, he said, aged them so that they would not appear to be new.

These documents were then brought to Washington and offered in testimony. Nugent Dodds, who with Neil Burkinshaw prosecuted Pitts, Edwards and C. Elbert Anadale, looked over the papers and then had them submitted to Government agents for analysis. The experts report was that the documents appeared to have been made all at the same time, on practically the same typewriter, and that they appeared to have been artifically aged. Supposedly, they represented transactions covering years.

Commissioner Turnage bound Hart over to the action of the grand jury, and continued the same $15,000 bond he had set when the former accountant for Pitts was arrested.

108 Passengers Landed As Ship Runs Aground

Her 108 passengers were reported safely landed in boats.

COMMITTEE AND TAX EXPERT ARE AT ODDS

George Lord Challenged by Some Who Think Levy Here Is Too Small.

George Lord, of Detroit, tax expert of national reputation employed by the special House committee on District fiscal relations, made his first report to the committee yesterday and fell into difficulties.

Mr. Lord has been delving for weeks beneath the surface of taxation figures in an effort to compile a true picture of the relative tax burdens borne by residents of Washington and of other cities. He began submission and explanation of his data before the committee yesterday.

Significance was found in the fact that some of the committee members who have most fervently committed themselves to a declaration that residents of the National Capital are paying comparatively little taxes challenged Mr. Lord's studies.

"The committee found that some things Mr. Lord had prepared were not especially relevant, while he did not have other information the committee wanted," Representative James E. Frear (Republican), Wisconsin, said after the committee meeting, which was an executive session. Mr. Frear frequently has attacked Washington newspapers on the grounds that they sought for business reasons to foster the existing condition under which, he said, taxpayers here escaped their fair burden and called on the Federal Treasury for an undue appropriation.

Representative Carl E. Mapes (Republican), of Michigan, chairman of the committee, at whose suggestion Mr. Lord was employed by the committee to make the taxation study, said the committee had not been able to receive all of Mr. Lord's data and would meet daily with the committee expert until the subject had been covered.

"The committee may have a statement to make on the basis of Mr. Lord's report within a week or so," Mr. Mapes said. "Nothing has been decided and nothing, so far as the tenor of the committee report is concerned, will be decided immediately."

Daily sessions of the committee will be executive, but the data prepared by Mr. Lord will be made public later and recognized representa-

CAROL TO PAY HELEN $40,000 EACH YEAR

Queen's Exile Is Arranged With 3 Annual Visits to Roumania Allowed.

Vienna, June 9 (A.P.).—Dispatches from Bucharest today said that negotiations preliminary to former Queen Helen's leaving Roumania have been concluded and that she will leave in a few days, after arrangements are made for the payment to her of $40,000 a year through a London bank.

The reports said that the former queen demanded that a sum be placed in investments for her to yield $40,000 a year, but that King Carol insisted that such a sum was unavailable at the present time. He agreed, however, it was stated, to the annual payments, and opened negotiations with a British bank.

Helen may visit Roumania not more than three times a year to see her son, Prince Michael, the dispatch said, and for this purpose her palace in the capital and her summer residence on the Black Sea will remain her property.

King Carol was also said to have given his word of honor that he will apprise Helen every time Prince Michael becomes ill, so that she may fly to Roumania to nurse her child.

Paris, June 9 (A.P.).—A Roumanian lawyer who has just arrived here and who refused to permit the use of his name stated that a beautiful villa and a large park were bought last week at Bucharest, Roumania, in the name of the mother of King Carol's secretary and that workmen were immediately ordered to build a high wall around the property.

He said that well-informed circles in the Roumanian capital were insisting that there was no doubt but that the villa was for Mme. Magda Lupescu and that the purchase actually was made by King Carol. The purchase price of the property was given as $66,000.

Madison Avenue Holdup Nets Robbers $30,000

New York, June 9 (A.P.).—Two armed men entered the shop of the Lido Jewels, Inc., in Madison avenue today, bound and gagged the proprietor, Morris Levine, and escaped with $30,000 in jewelry.

Capital Woman in Number Presented at British Court

Mrs. George Mesta and Seven Other Americans Curtsy to King and Queen at June Function at Buckingham Palace, Attended by Notables.

London, June 9 (A.P.).—Eight American women tonight moved with 400 British debutantes through royal scenes of splendor at the first of two "June courts" at Buckingham Palace.

An unusually large representation of the royal circle gathered around King George and Queen Mary in the scarlet and gold state room, which was filled with white and pink roses, as their majesties acknowledged the curtsies of those presented.

Around the twin gold thrones the assemblage included the Duke of Gloucester, in a hussar's uniform; Prince George in a naval uniform, and Princess Mary, with her husband, Lord Harewood, in the scarlet uniform of the guards.

The Americans, who made their bow before British royalty are Mrs. Charles E. Van Vleck, jr., of New York; Mrs. Cassel R. St. Albans, of New York; Mrs. George Mesta, of Washington; Helen McCann, of New York; Mrs. H. S. Lehr, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Frederick W. Hilles, of New Haven; Mrs. Lester E. Grant, of Denver, and Barbara Childs, of Norfolk, Conn.

Others at the side of the thrones included the Earl and Countess of Athlone, with their daughter, Lady May Cambridge; the Dowager Marchioness of Milford Haven; Marquis and Marchioness Carisbrooke, and Lady Louis Mountbatten.

Most eyes, however, were turned toward the stately queen who, according to many who had seen her at

Young Clerk Is Held In $207,000 Swindle

$130-a-Month Detroit Man, With Taste for Autos and Yachts, Accused of Defrauding City on Fake Grocery Bills.

Detroit, Mich., June 9 (A.P.).—A young $130-a-month city clerical worker, with a taste for custom-built automobiles and yachts, was in jail tonight while the police investigated what they said was the greatest swindle in Detroit's history.

The prisoner is Alex F. Lewis, until last April a clerk in the department of public welfare. He is accused of defrauding the city of $207,000 by a system of faked grocery orders, cashed at the city hall by a nonexistent firm, of which he was proprietor.

City officials indicated tonight that an investigation of the city's entire system of doles and relief work, which has amounted to more than $1,000,000 a month during the past two years, probably will be made.

Lewis was arrested on the campus of Michigan State College, at East Lansing, today, an hour after Prosecutor Harry S. Toy had recommended a warrant charging him with obtaining $20,842 under false pretenses. The former clerk was brought to Detroit and questioned by the prosecutor and Mayor Frank Murphy.

The shortage in the welfare department was discovered after officials of the bank where Lewis kept his account became suspicious of frequent large deposits.

Investigators discovered he had purchased two expensive automobiles, a yacht, hired a chauffeur and started construction of a home and a summer cottage.

They also learned that during 1917 and 1918 Lewis had been caught impersonating successfully an Army major, a postal inspector, a former police commissioner and a special agent of the Department of Justice, and had served a term in Leavenworth for one such offense.

Town Razed by Philip Of Macedon Uncovered

Athens, June 9 (A.P.).—Prof. David Moore Robinson, archeologist of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, today informed the Greek government of successful excavations by Americans at Olynthos in Chalkidike, which was destroyed by Philip of Macedon, in 348 B. C. and was a subject of Demosthenes' orations.

Several houses and a portion of the ancient city were discovered.

Radio Advice, Tug Carrying Aid Save 4 From Poisoning

Vessel Dashes 200 Miles to Cape Mala From Balboa and Returns Americans, Suffering From Ptomaine, to Hospital; Men Still Have Fevers.

Balboa, Canal Zone, June 9 (A.P.).—A 200-mile dash of a tug carrying medical relief and medical advice sent by radio are credited with saving the lives of four Americans who were dangerously ill of ptomaine poisoning at Cape Mala, lonely outpost of civilization where the Gulf of Panama sweeps into the Pacific.

The sick men were brought to Balboa today on the tug Sciota, which steamed at full speed through the Panama Canal yesterday, while other traffic was shunted aside, and hurried the remaining 90 miles distance to Cape Mala, in response to a call for aid.

Still suffering from high fevers, the patients, who are radio operators at the United States Naval Station at [illegible], were transferred to Gorgas Hospital.

The men, said to have become ill after eating contaminated sea food, are Frank Freeman, Alexandria, La.; John Wrine, Geneva, Iowa; Dewey Puckett, Bonham, Tex., and Raymond Lowry, Gillham, Ark.

A medical officer, who accompanied the tug on its relief expedition, radioed suggestions for treatment from the vessel and gave first-aid treatment immediately after his arrival.

The medical assistance was sent on a tug instead of an airplane because of the heavy swell which constantly runs against the cape.

A pharmacist's mate is regularly part of the personnel at the Mala station, but he was given a leave to come to Balboa several days before the men became ill.

The medical officer, who made the trip on the tug was Commander C. F. [illegible], of Kansas.

premier reminded the deputies that the government would automatically resign Saturday when President-elect Paul Doumer assumes office, and that next week they might again interpellate at their leisure.

Berlin, June 9 (A.P.).—A discontented country, stirred afresh by the new emergency tax decrees, is awaiting Chancellor Bruening and Dr. Curtius, now on the way home from their conference at Chequers with the heads of the British government.

The chancellor's first job will be to report on that conference to President von Hindenburg, who is at his summer home in East Prussia, and the cabinet. Then he will have to listen to the chorus of complaints by leaders of the various political parties, each of whom has his own solution for the nation's economic difficulties.

Extra Session Demanded.

It is virtually certain that Herr Bruening will refuse any demands for convocation of the Reichstag, which now is out for the summer recess; but the Council of Elders, the Reichstag's steering committee, tomorrow will consider motions by the Nationalists, the National Socialists and the Communists for an early extra session.

The decision of the Social Democrats on this proposal is awaited with some anxiety, for that party is still numerically the strongest. If it joins the demand for an extra session the chancellor could hardly hold the lid down.

Meanwhile the popular outcry against the emergency decrees continues unabated. One newspaper announced today that it had decided to get out a special edition explaining them as an answer to thousands of letters from its readers. Another paper said the decrees were phrased in such involved official language that they are unintelligible.

Moratorium Demand Is Denied.

An official denial has been issued of reports that the government was preparing to demand a moratorium, but at the same time it is agreed that the government realizes the people will demand something more tangible regarding the war debts than they have yet received and it is expected that some action toward that end may be taken late this month or early next month.

The stock market, after opening fairly firm today, turned dull on a Reichsbank statement indicating shipment of approximately $17,000,000 to Paris and London besides the diminution of approximately $17,500,000 in foreign currency drafts. This, however, is not regarded in the market as a "flight of capital."

lighted tonight when they learned through the Associated Press that the British government had officially announced the acceptance of their invitation to Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Minister Henderson to come to Germany.

"That's splendid news and a worthy close to our Chequers visit," they said.

In any conversations between the heads of the German government and the visiting American Cabinet members the point will be made that Germany and Britain both wish to work with America as a friend in deciding what course must be pursued.

Two points are uppermost in the minds of the Germans, so far as the conversations with Secretary Stimson are concerned.

They would welcome an opportunity to talk world problems with him just as frankly and in the same spirit of friendship as they did with Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Henderson.

Confer With Sackett.

But they do not desire that Mr. Stimson be forced into the awkward position of father confessor, in whose ears all Europe will pour its tale of woe. They do not want him to feel that he is expected to remold American public opinion, with a view to revision or cancellation of the war debts. That, they feel, would be unfair to Stimson and would harm, rather than help, the international situation.

The Germans already have had an opportunity for direct contact with an official American. Frederick M. Sackett, Ambassador to Germany, is their fellow passenger on the Europa. He had intended to disembark at Cherbourg, but stayed on.

Mr. Sackett participated in the International Chamber of Commerce sessions at Washington, and had extended conversations with President Hoover and the State Department. His viewpoint on the attitude of the United States was, therefore, of first importance to Herr Bruening and Dr. Curtius.

The two ministers dined tonight with Ambassador Sackett and Mrs. Sackett and directors of the Hamburg-American and North German Lloyd lines.

After dinner they held a long and animated conversation with Ambassador Sackett.

Praises Chequers Conference.

Explaining his change in plans and his decision to continue on to Bremen aboard the steamer, Ambassador Sackett said just before sailing he had learned that the German ministers would be passengers on the Europa from Southampton to Bremen. "Though I had intended to disembark at Cherbourg," he said, "I deemed it a matter of self-evident courtesy to remain aboard."

He said that the Chequers conference, in his opinion, was "one of the finest things that has happened in many a day."

Mr. Henderson already has informed the French and Italian Ambassadors at London of the outcome of the discussions with the Germans.

It may now be taken for granted that diplomatic activity on reparations will ensue between Downing street and Wilhelmstrasse.

34th Infantry Troops In Camp at Petersburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., June 9.—Members of the Thirty-fourth Infantry Regiment, U. S. A., of Fort Eustis, arrived here today from Suffolk on their summer hike and have gone into camp at Lee Park. The command consists of 250 enlisted men and 21 officers and their band. The troops will remain here until Thursday, and while here will engage in defense practice at Camp Lee against imaginary low-flying aircraft.

The visiting troops will be shown every courtesy while here. About 200 of these troops took part in the memorial parade this afternoon with their band.

SURVEY OF TRAFFIC GIVEN INDORSEMENT

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The board of directors of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, meeting last night in the Kelly Building at Clarendon, unanimously indorsed the traffic survey that is being sponsored by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the Bureau of Public Roads.

Following considerable discussion on the development of highways in Arlington County and it being apparent that no direct approach to the New Arlington Memorial Bridge will be completed in the near future, President Louis C. Carl announced the appointment of the following committee to confer with Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant, 3d, seeking his cooperation in providing the connecting link from the bridge to the Lee Boulevard: William S. Hoge, jr., Ashton C. Jones and Louis C. Carl.

The plans for the development for the Rosslyn area, as proposed by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, were submitted to the members of the board and, after much discussion, they were referred to the committee on roads and highways of which Monroe H. Stockett is the chairman, with instructions to cooperate with all organizations in the county interested in the project.

With the names of the winners of the essay contest on the theme, "Why Arlington County Should Beautify for 1932" being withheld until announced over the radio tonight, more than 5,000 Arlington County school children are on tip-toe of anticipation and eagerly awaiting the hour of 7 o'clock, when the beautification contest committee of the Arlington County Bicentennial Council will go on the air from station WJSV, Mount Vernon Hills Virginia, with an hour's program of music and other numbers, including the reading of the prize-winning essays by the pupils who wrote them.

There will be three essays, one from the senior high school, one from the junior high school and one from the elementary schools. The name of the pupil composing the winning essay in each of the sixteen elementary schools of the county will also be announced.

The program has been arranged by the subcommittee on information and publicity, of which A. J. Webb is the charman. The latter will make a brief talk on the purpose and scope of the beautification contest. The musical numbers will be supplied by the Washington-Lee High School Orchestra and Glee Club.

Aroused by the opening of a public dump on the 70-acre tract of land at the intersection of the Washington-Richmond highway and the new Four-Mile road recently completed by the county, the Jefferson District Citizens Association, in a meeting last night, unanimously adopted a resolution opposing such operations.

The resolution was offered by Mrs. Alice W. Semones, a nearby resident, residing in Aurora Hills. It reads: "That the citizens of Jefferson District are opposed to both a temporary and a permanent dump in Arlington county and are 'deeply opposed' to the location of a dump at Four-Mile Run."

Copies of the resolution will be sent to Representative Howard W. Smith, the county health department and to the county board of supervisors.

Mrs. Semones declared that it is bad enough to have the trash from Washington dumped in Arlington County, but to set it afire at night, which creates odors and dense smoke, which make living in the vicinity most unpleasant, is more than the residents of this section should be called on to bear, and every effort to have a stop put to it will be made.

It is understood that a large portion of the land which is being used is within the city limits of Alexandria and it was learned last night that dumping there will be under the direct supervision of the city council and the city health department and that the regulations will be enforced or there will be no dumping.

As for the dumping within Arlington County, Edward Duncan, chairman of the county board of supervisors, in whose district it is claimed the dumping is going on, when called upon last night for a statement refused to have anything to say other than that no dumping was going on in Arlington County.

It is claimed by Mrs. Semones, author of the resolution, that dumping is going on within Arlington County. Investigation at the courthouse revealed that there has been no permit issued for the operation of any dump.

Discussing the question last night, Zoning Administrator Robert H. Forman stated that, at the time amendments to the zoning ordinance were being offered, he made efforts to have an amendment adopted by the board of supervisors so that there could be some sort of regulations made governing dumps, there being considerable opposition to such a movement. The amendment failed.

Joseph D. McDonnell, owner of several houses within the Virginia Highlands area, near where the dump is located, declared last night that he has already lost one tenant and that he is planning to circulate a petition throughout the entire district in opposition to its continuance.

Concluding the lengthly discussion on the dump question, President G. O. Bashman announced the appointment of the following members on the public utility committee: J. C. McClellan, Charles T. Thrope and B. S. Kidwell. The committee was instructed to see what they could do with reference to the alleged poor drainage of the streets within Virginia Highlands.

According to an announcement last night by Mr. Vanderslice, a high school scholarship applicable to Washington-Lee High School has been created by the board of trustees of the George Washington University, Washington, and has been awarded to Josephine Withauer.

To Betsy Cannon goes the scholarship to Westhampton College, Richmond.

The Kiwanis Club of Arlington County, will hold its first luncheon meeting today at Windsor Arms at 12:15 o'clock.

J. Randall Caton, member of the Alexandria Kiwanis Club, will be the speaker.

The Margaret King Circle of St. George's Episcopal Church will hold a luncheon tomorrow at the home of Mrs. W. C. Welburn, at Ballston.

ALBEMARLE SCHOOL TO BE MODERNIZED

Institution Founded in 1878 by Samuel Miller Has Annual Graduation.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 9.—Plans for rehabilitation and modernization of the Miller School, Albemarle institution established by Samuel Miller upon the manual labor principle in 1878, took definite form during the commencement exercises marking the close of the fifty-third session. Judge L. F. Smith, of the circuit court, announced the appointment of W. Louis Johnson, of New York City, a member of the class of 1887, as director to provide funds with which to place the institution physically and scholastically as far in advance of the present time as it was ahead of its time when founded.

Appointment of the director was made some time ago and Mr. Johnson, who was present at the exercises, said he had already begun to survey work necessary to determine the cost of improvements.

Associated with Mr. Johnson is an architect, Stanford B. Lewis, of Philadelphia.

Memorial Is Dedicated.

The feature of the ninth homecoming of the alumni association was the dedication of the memorial reservoir, gift of W. Louis Johnson, seventy-fourth boy to enter the school. The reservoir, located between the Blue Ridge Mountains 5 miles from the school, was designed by Stanford B. Lewis and was officially accepted by Judge Smith.

Arnold H. Goering, of Baltimore, was elected president of the alumni association. Other officers are: Vice president, R. S. Payne, Troy, N. Y.; secretary, Mrs. Daisy Smith Shackelford, of Charlottesville, Va., and treasurer, Mary Taylor Clark, of Crozet, Va. The executive committee selected was Grace Gutermuth, of Richmond; J. Cliv Quarles, of Charlottesville, and W. H. Payne, of Roanoke.

Through its president, Arnold H. Goering, the Baltimore Chapter sent a contribution of $100 to the alumni association.

Diplomas Are Awarded.

At the closing exercises diplomas were awarded Clark Webster and Lewis Lanus by Judge Smith, and the address to the graduates was made by E. I. Carruthers, of the University of Virginia. The Miller School scholarship to the University of Virginia was awarded Clark Webster.

The scholarship prize in the high school department was won by Garnett Miller, and the same prize in the elementary department went to Hunter Gibson. Presentations were made by Miss Virginia Wilson, of Baltimore.

A prize for outstanding achievement in industrial work was won by Garnett Miller, while the atheletic prize went to Forrest Critzer.

House in Beltsville Burns.

An unoccupied house in Beltsville, about half a mile from the Baltimore boulevard, was destroyed by fire late last night. Efforts of the Berwyn and Berwyn Heights Fre Departments to save the structure were fruitless. Prince Georges County authorities are working on the theory that the fire was of incendiary origin.

Radio Body Opposes Plea for Injunction

(Associated Press.)

The Radio Commission yesterday asked the District of Columbia Supreme Court to dismiss an application for an injunction to prevent it from revoking 1,409 licenses held by subsidiaries of the Radio Corporation of America.

Four subsidiaries of the Radio Corporation—the National Broadcasting Co., the R. C. A.-Victor Co, Inc., R. C. R. Communications, Inc., and the Radio-Marine Corporation of America—had asked the court to restrain the commission from revoking operation licenses they held.

Court Grants Photographs Of Will of First President

Previous Ruling Is Amended in Fairfax County So That Copies May Be Used in Atlas at Bicentennial Celebration Next Year.

On the petition of Representative Sol Bloom, director of the George Washington bicentennial committee, Judge Walter T. McCarthy of the Fairfax County Circuit Court has ordered a previous ruling of the court amended so as to allow photostatic copies of the last will and testament of Gen. George Washington to be made.

The will, which is the most treasured of the records in the Fairfax County clerk's office, is now on display in a glass case in the fireproof county record room in Fairfax, together with the will of Martha Washington.

The will is to be photographed for the second time for use in the Congressional Memorial Atlas of Washington's Travels, being prepared by the United States Commission for the Celebration of the Two Hundredth Anniversary of Washington's Birth next year.

The historic document was photographed the first time for the Library of Congress. On July 23, 1910, Judge J. B. T. Thornton granted permision to Gallard Hunt and Lawrence Washington, of the Library of Congress, to photograph the will on condition that the copy should be made at Fairfax without expense to the county and that the document should not be removed from the custody of the clerk, F. W. Richardson, and on further condition that Mr. Berwick, expert who had previously restored the will as far as possible to its original condition, be present to supervise handling of the document.

Only printed copies of the will are sold by the local Fairfax School League for the benefit of the Fairfax schools, and no reproductions of the handwriting or appearance have been available.

Because of the memorial celebration next year, Judge McCarthy ordered the ruling amended, "To grant the commission permission to use photostatic copies of the will and the schedule of property thereto affixed for inclusion in the Congressional Atlas of Washington's Travels."

Permission was also granted to use certain sentences and clauses in decorating some of the maps in the new atlas in connection with the celebration.

170 HARRISONBURG DEGREES AWARDED

One of Institution's Largest Classes Graduated; Girls of District in Group.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., June 9.—One hundred and seventy young women, from 51 Virginia counties and 11 Virginia cities and 6 States and the District of Columbia, walked from the Harrisonburg State Teachers College today with diplomas under their arms, representing one of the largest graduating classes in the 22-year history of the institution.

Bachelor of science degrees were awarded to 82, and professional courses degrees were given to 8. The commencement exercises were held in new Woodrow Wilson Hall, more than 1,000 persons being in the auditorium.

Dr. Hall Is Speaker.

The commencement address was delivered by Dr. Sidney B. Hall, Virginia State superintendent of public instruction, who reviewed the conflicting theories of teacher training. Dr. Hall declared the pioneer educators, who came to America from the European schools, brought with them the idea that higher education, particularly that of the academic sort had always been intended for the leisure class.

"Had this theory been followed completely in America," Dr. Hall said, "it would have created a peasant class in this country which it has already don, in Europe."

Dr. Hall pointed out that in recent years the liberal arts colleges, which had a one-sided view of education, have added departments of education, which is a definite recognition of the fact that that which they may have been giving in the past is not sufficient for the teacher, at least, and that those who are going to teach must have an opportunity for gaining certain proficiency in teaching.

ALEXANDRIA HOPING FOR STATE COLLEGE

Sees Chances Good Also for Being Site of Veterans' Hospital.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria, 523.

Alexandria's chances of securing the State Liberal Arts College for Women, a United States veterans' hospital and for having the Hybla Valley site chosen for a Zeppelin airport, are good, according to Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

In speaking of the Liberal Arts College, Mr. Hollenga stated that letters have been forwarded to members of both branches of the State Legislature telling them of the advantages of Alexandria for such an institution, calling attention to the proximity of Alexandria to Washington and what that city has to offer in the way of libraries and other advantages to students. Mr. Hollenga stated a committee viewing sites for the college came here some time ago, and was favorably impressed with the advantages offered, and will further investigate Alexandria's claims.

In regard to the movement for the location of a veterans' hospital here, he said he has advanced the idea that the close proximity of Alexandria to Washington, as well as points in Maryland and Virginia, would save the Government a large amount of money in the transportation of patients, especially those from the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia.

Mr. Hollenga stated that the Virginia Federation of Labor will hold its annual convention here in 1932, and he also expects the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and its auxiliary, having 3,000 delegates, to accept a similar invitation.

In reference to the Hybla Valley site for a Zeppelin airport, he stated that reports on weather conditions at that point will be continued until November 30, when a decision will probably be reached.

The work of conferring degrees on a class of 26 candidates was continued yesterday by the Scottish Rite Masons, the fifteenth to the twenty-first degrees being conferred in the Masonic Temple on Cameron street. Dinner was served at 6 o'clock, and the degree work resumed at 7 o'clock.

Harry H. Newton, chairman of the program committee, will announce today the principal speaker for the banquet which is to be given tomorrow night in the George Mason Hotel, marking the close of the spring reunion. Dr. Robert S. Barrett will preside, there will be an address of welcome by H. H. Porter, venerable master of Washington Memorial Lodge of Perfection; an address by Hon. Jefferson Myers, of Washington, and an elaborate program of entertainment, including musical selections. The Rev. Dr. E. V. Regester will offer the invocation at the banquet.

Effective July 1, the force of internal revenue agents in Alexandria will be increased by the transfer from Richmond of Edward R. Ryan. J. Sid Wiley is deputy collector of internal revenue, with Charles P. Nelson and D. Worth Stanton, internal revenue agents.

The revenue agents are now engaged in reviewing the tax returns filed for 1930 and expect to complete this task by the end of June, after which the returns of 1931 will be taken up.

Several of those indicted by the grand jury in the corporation court, Judge William F. Woolls presiding, have entered pleas of guilty and been sentenced. Dates for trial of the other cases have been set, several of them for June 30.

Joe Miller, Negro, was given one year in the penitentiary for the theft of an automobile from Edward Lee; William Davis, Negro, one year for assault on Mabel Odom; Jack Hunter, indicted for breaking and entering the Dixie Pig barbecue stand January 18, was sentenced to a year in the penitentiary, with credit for the time already served in jail; Dolphus Hall, Negro, grand larceny in connection with the theft of an automobile from G. J. Hufford; pleaded guilty and was sentenced to one year, with credit for time served in jail from January 26.

Those indicted, whose cases will be heard later, are Louis Putnam, shooting Rozier Lyons on June 3, trial set for June 30; George Jones, felonious assault on James Field, March 15, trial June 30; Ruth Tibbs, felonious assault on Winfred Scott, March 23, and John Leary, felonious assault on Margaret Young, April 30, trial set for June 30; L. O. Broadnax, assault on Abraham Gladney, May 20, trial June 30.

A capias for the arrest of Walter C. Gardner, said to live in Washington, indicted for perjury in connection with a divorce case, has been made out and sent to Washington.

James Douglas, of 1008 North Royal street, has reported to the police that while his truck was parked on the 400 block South Columbus street it was struck and damaged by an automobile driven by a woman, who then abandoned her own car and left the scene. The woman's car was taken to police headquarters by Policemen Snoots, Murphy and Baker, who investigated the accident. The abandoned car, according to the police, is registered in the name of a woman living at Quantico.

The police are now making a close check of automobiles parked on King street beyond the one-hour limit, and it is expected that in the next few days many violators will be summoned into police court. The one-hour limitation applies between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m., on Sundays as well as week days.

A meeting of the ambulance fund committee of the Alexandria Fire Department will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening at No. 2 engine house in Potomac. Samuel B. DeVaughan, chairman of the committee, has requested that every member be present. Reports are expected from Mrs. J. W. Travers and Sergt. J. E. Cobean.

OFFICERS ELECTED IN FAIRFAX TOWNS

Renaming of Councilmen in Falls Church Hailed as School Board Victory.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

All offices in the town of Herndon and three of the councilmen in Falls Church were filled in two municipal elections yesterday in Fairfax County.

Of 280 votes cast in Falls Church only 1 was void. An attempt had been made to inject the issue between citizens of the town and the school board, with a large number of citizens protesting failure of the board to reappoint two elementary teachers. They held a mass meeting on the question and demanded reappointment of the teachers, or, failing in this, asked that the entire board resign. A committee of five was named to take up the question with the board. If the board refused to act, they were to seek the removal of board members. The three members of the board are appointed, one each year, by the town council for three-year terms.

Reelection of the three town councilmen yesterday was hailed as vindicating the school board, as it is believed the council will reappoint the present members. Results of the election in Falls Church were: Ward 1—W. T. Parrott, 145; Benjamin Elliott, 132. Ward 2—Dr. Julius Parmelee, 153; Joseph Smith, 126. Ward 3—Charles Gage, 227, and Frederick B. Wright and R. A. Crenshaw, 1 vote each. Wright's and Crenshaw's names were written on the ballots.

In the Herndon election, 149 votes were cast, with Stanley B. Hanes receiving 141 for mayor. For town clerk, Charles J. Sager received 88 votes and Mrs. Jesse Aud 56. Vernon C. Cockerille, unopposed for town sergeant and treasurer, received 143.

Ten persons were candidates for the town council and the six receiving the largest number of votes will serve on the council for the next term. Ernest Gibson received 113; Julian D. Thompson, 106; John R. Hurst, 109; Raymond N. Wrenn, 80; George A. Bready, 87; Silas F. Hutchison, 77; William H. Moffett and Walter H. Wiley, 72 each; Edgar E. Gillette, 62, and Willis W. McGlincy, 47.

Mrs. Arthur Hyde Buell, president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Volunteer Fire Department of Herndon, has appointed a new committee to take charge of arrangements for auxiliary participation in the Labor Day firemen's celebration in Washington. The committee will be composed of Mrs. Theda North Filly, chairman; Mrs. Marie Adrain Berger, Mrs. Powell Summers, Miss Marjorie Reed and Miss Mary Hurst. Graduation exercises of the St. James Parochial School at West Falls Church will be held this morning at 10 o'clock in the schoolhouse.

Fire of mysterious origin gutted a tenant house on the R. Walton Moore estate in Fairfax early yesterday morning. The house was occupied by Lucretia Brooks, colored, and her son, George Benaugh. The woman was not home yesterday morning and it is not known whether the boy was in the building when the fire started. Sheriff E. P. Kirby is investigating the disappearance of the youth.

The fire was discovered by Miss Helene Mitchell, who lives in the house adjoining the Moores. She gave the alarm, but when the Fairfax telephone operator endeavored to sound the siren to summon the fire department it was discovered that the town's supply of electric current on the siren had been suspended by the power company, supposedly while repairs were being made. The telephone operator summoned members of the fire department by phone.

Elton R. Holbrook, deputy clerk of the Fairfax Circuit Court, has tendered his resignation, effective July 1, as agent for the department of game and inland fisheries in charge of issuance of hunting and fishing licenses for Fairfax County. The office will be taken over by Thomas F. Chapman, sr.

GRADUATING ARMY ATHLETES REVIEWED

Special to The Washington Post.

West Point, N. Y., June 9.—Today's June week program at the United State Military Academy was crowded with events. Rain early in the morning threatened to interfere with the athletic review, but downpour ceased and the review was held. Squads of baseball, football, basket ball, tennis, soccer, track, cross country, polo, lacrosse players and others attired in uniforms representing the different sports at the academy passed in review before the superintendent, Maj. Gen. William R. Smith. Eighteen sport teams were represented in the review, taking in the entire cadet corps of over 1,200 men. Trophies, letters, numbers, monograms and other awards were presented.

The last of the annual examinations, that in history, was held this morning. The graduation ride this afternoon was largely attended by the throngs of visitors here for the exercises. MONTGOMERY SELLS $200,000 IN BONDS

Issue, Bringing 104.919, Is Bought by Washington Company.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

A $200,000 issue of Montgomery County bonds to pay for the site of the new courthouse at Rockville yesterday was sold for 104.919 to the Y. E. Booker & Co., of Washington, which figures a bonus of $9,838 to the county on the issue. The four bids offered by the nine firms competing were above par.

It was revealed yesterday that copies of the petition which is being circulated in the county asking for a grand jury investigation of the county's affairs had been sent anonymously to the Baltimore Co., which bought the last issue of county bonds at a figure well above par. This was given as the reason the company sent a representative to the office of the county commissioners in Rockville to check up on the county's affairs last week.

The investigation apparently was satisfactory as the Baltimore Co. bid more than par for the present issue.

The bids offered follow:

By Y. E. Booker & Co., of Washington, with Harris, Forbes & Co., of New York, 104.919 and acrued interest to date of delivery. This bid won the issue.

Mercantile Trust Co., of Baltimore, with Stein Bros. & Boyce, of Baltimore, 103.457 and accrued interest.

Baltimore Co., Robert Garrett & Sons, John P. Baer & Co. and Jenkins, Whedbee & Poe, 103.09 and accrued interest.

Union Trust Co. of Maryland, 101.10 and accrued interest.

The winning bid was higher than the offer for the county road bonds last week, but slightly lower than that for the school bonds.

The bonds will bear 4½ per cent per annum interest, are dated June 15, 1931, and are retirable $5,000 each year from 1939 to 1962 and $10,000 each year from 1963 to 1970.

Eight new trustees were appointed yesterday by the Montgomery County Board of Education at its meeting in Rockville. The new trustees and the schools they will represent are: Eugene Higgins, Derwood; Ernest Hawkins, Burdette; Leroy McCathran, Washington Grove; Thurston King, Kingsley; August Priebe, Unity; Clarence Webster, Wheaton Colored; W. H. Hamilton, Sellman Colored, and Samuel Hallman, Quince Orchard Colored.

A delegation from Gaithersburg appeared to ask the board to provide for surface drainage at the school by piping the water to the street and save the lawn from washing away.

A resolution from the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs requesting that provision be made in the Rockville colored high school for teaching manual training and domestic science; that an instructor in speech reading be employed for the county schools, and that the county schools be closed on George Washington's birthday, February 22, was presented to the board.

Commencement exercises were held last night at Gaithersburg High School at which 23 students were awarded diplomas. The invocation was given by the Rev. Denny L. Fringer, pastor of Grace M. E. Church South. Essays were read by Doris Palmer and Elizabeth Watkins, of the graduating class.

"Water Lilies" was sung by a sextet, Doris Palmer, Janet Walker, Julia Johnson, Albert Clagett, Russell Watkins, Richard Wayland. Diplomas were presented by Mrs. Julian Waters, of the county board of education and announcement of awards was made by Thomas W. Troxell, principal. The benediction was given by the Rev. A. E. Spielman, pastor of Epworth M. E. Church.

The following honor awards were announced: Miss Janet K. Walker, winner of third prize in the Statewide Paris peace pact essay contest; Catherine West, model student medal awarded by the Alumni Association; Forensic medals awarded by the Parent-Teacher Association, Doris Palmer and Elizabeth Watkins; Doris Palmer and Elizabeth Palmer each were awarded a $5 gold piece in lieu of the scholarship medal as they tied; Helen Riggs was awarded the improvement medal given by Miss M. Broome; Richard Wayland was awarded the International Society Sons of the American Revolution medal for loyalty to the school and clean living. Two pupils of the seventh grade were awarded $5 each for excellence on the athletic field. They were Richard Ferguson and Howard Reed.

Diplomas were awarded to the following: Gladys Louise Alinut, Caroline Eleanor Beall, Thelma Virginia Bosley, Forest Edward Briggs, Albert Washington Clagett, Margaret Wood Griffith, Julia Mae Johnson, Malcolm Elwood King, Nellie Virginia Lawson, Elizabeth Jane Musser, Mildred Lucille Oden, Doris Margaret Palmer, Edith Estelle Purdum, Helen Wayman Riggs, Margaret Adele Tschiffely, Alice Virginia Walker, Janet King Walker, Pearl Marian Walker, Alverta Davis Ward, Leah Elizabeth Watkins, Russell Cornelius Watkins, Ralph Richard Wayland, jr., and Catherine Elizabeth West.

Suit for absolute divorce was filed yesterday in Circuit Court at Rockville by George A. Pearre, jr., of Comus, who alleges that Mrs. Marie D. Pearre, of Frederick, deserted him. They were married October 2, 1917.

Plans for the proposed new firehouse for Chevy Chase, Md., will be presented to a group of builders and contractors today by the Chevy Chase fire board, in order that they may prepare bids for its construction by June 20. The new firehouse is to be located at Connecticut avenue and Dunlop street, opposite the Columbia Country Club.

Plans and specifications were prepared by Ralph W. Berry, architect, and approved by the board. It is expected to be the most modern and completely equiped firehouse in the county, and its location provides prompt response to all parts of the community. The building is to be erected on a large corner lot, and will be 78 feet long, with a main wing 36 feet wide and a side wing 24 by 32 feet. It will be of brick and reinforced concrete and completely fireproof throughout and will cost approximately $40,000.

Space for the fire apparatus, a large recreation hall, living room and a boardroom will be provided on the first floor. A large dormitory for the firemen on duty, a room for the chief, and other facilities will be located on the second floor.

The erection of the new building will not increase the fire tax for the community, members of the board said. The present space occupied by the Fire Department is in the Chevy Chase Library Building, and it is needed for expansion of the Chevy Chase postoffice. William Hughes is president of the fire board, with William L. Orem as secretary-treasurer and Marcellus Shields as superintendent.

ANNE ARUNDEL TAX RATE IS UP 13 CENTS

County's Levy Made for Six Months; To Start Year on January 1.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 9.—Acting under the provisions of an act of the last Legislature, which changed Anne Arundel County's fiscal year from July 1 to January 1, the board of county commissioners, in announcing the tax levy today, fixed the rate for a six months' period instead of a full year. The general county rate for that period was set at 43 cents on $100 valuation, an increase of 13 cents, compared to the flat rate of 60 cents which applied to the whole of the last fiscal year. This does not include the levy for roads in the several districts or the school and State tax.

Though the county officials find themselves confronted with additional expenses, it is stated that the boost in the tax was made necessary largely because of the loss of revenue that will result from the act of the last Legislature exempting the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railroad from taxation. This represents an item of more than $25,000.

An increase of 2 cents is made in the school tax. The rate for the six months period is 50 cents. The flat yearly rate last year was 75 cents. The respective road taxes for the half period are: First district, 45 cents; second, 45; third, 40; fourth, 40; fifth, 40; seventh, 40; eighth, 50.

The rate on special areas follows: Arundel-on-the Bay, 50 cents; Highland Beach, 37½; Herald Harbor, 50; Eastport, 42½; second, third and fifth sanitary districts, 2½; water bonds, 3½. The general county rate and school tax applied to Annapolis is 93 cents, an increase of 14 cents.

Rear Admiral Butler will conduct the first inspection of the Washington Naval Reserve at the reserve armory Monday night at 8:15 o'clock, and will present decorations for distinguished service to Raymond Charles Wilson and Perry Jackson Hoy, chief torpedomen in the reserve.

Both decorations will be "for distinguished service in the line of his profession in connection with the preliminary stages of the development and testing of the submarine escape device known as the "lung," where with the final apparatus they made many test escapes."

The Navy Cross will be presented to Hoy, and Wilson will be given the Gold Star in lieu of a third Navy star. Lieut. S. W. Stinemetz, battalion commander, will be in charge of the ceremony.

Court Will Decide On Custody of Boy

Mother Claims Husband Is "Unfit" Guardian for 8-Year-Old.

A controversy over custody of 8-year-old Hawley Evans, of Twenty-first street near Florida avenue northwest, will be aired in the District Supreme Court today. A writ of habeas corpus was obtained by the child's mother, Mrs. Anne S. Evans, yesterday, and Justice Jennings Bailey directed that the boy be produced in court today.

Mrs. Evans asserted that she was given custody of the boy, with certain privileges extended to the father, George M. Evans, by decree of the courts of Nevada on March 31. This decree, she said, directed that Hawley be placed in the Stuyvesant School, at Warrenton, Va., and that accordingly he was taken there.

On May 1, she said, the father took the boy away from the school and he is now with his father and grandmother, Mrs. Meta M. Evans, at the Twenty-first street home. The charge is made that the boy's school expenses were not paid, and that the father is "unfit" to retain his custody.

Receives Fresh Impetus.

The new police offensive received fresh impetus yesterday, when a sentence of $500 fine or 180 days was meted out by Judge McMahon to Samuel Green in a "warrantless raid" on a place on Ninth street near K street northwest. The judge qualified his sentence however, informing officers they were not to take his decision as upholding the raids, because he "was not called upon to rule on that."

It was explained at headquarters that yesterday's "vagrancy" arrests were made under a broad interpretation of the District code, which defines as vagrants "idle persons who, not having visible means of support, live without lawful employment." Under the code, the definition likewise applies to "persons wandering abroad and visiting tippling shops or houses of ill fame," and again to "all persons leading an idle, immoral, or profligate life who have no property to support them, and who are able of body to do work and do not work."

They may be required to give bond upwards of $500, the code states, or be sentenced to not to exceed one year in the workhouse.

Ohio Woman Sentenced To Chair for Murder

Jefferson, O., June 9 (A.P.).—Mrs. Julia Maude Lowther, 23, was convicted here today of first degree murder of Mrs. Clara Smith, 28, of Ashtabula. The jury of 12 men failed to recommend mercy and thereby left Mrs. Lowther to a mandatory sentence of death in the electric chair.

Mrs. Lowther, first woman ever to face death in the electric chair in Ohio, did not stop chewing her gum as the clerk of the court read the jury's verdict, but she blanched, despite pallor caused by her incarceration since the killing May 29, 1930.

Stroke Proves Fatal to Woman.

Stricken suddenly yesterday in the kitchen of her home, at 1208 Ingraham street northwest, Mrs. Gertrude Dorsey, 56, died without regaining consciousness, despite efforts of the rescue squad and a private physician to revive her. GARRY OWENS' ALIBI SUPPORTED BY BOY

Nephew Says He Was With Death Suspect Night of Lane Murder.

An 11-year-old boy who could not resist the lure of going to see a "dead dog" went on the witness stand yesterday in the trial of Garry Owens, charged with the murder March 18 of James H. Lane, street car motorman-conductor, and gave evidence that strongly supported the alibi offered in Owens' defense.

The boy, Kenneth Spear, of Raleigh place southeast, a nephew of Owens, on cross-examination by Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins, stuck to his assertion that he saw Garry Owens most of the evening of March 18, because that was the time he saw the dead dog.

The boy said he left his home after dinner that evening so he could escape doing dishes. On the way to Owens' home, he said, he stopped to see the dead dog, and that enabled hig to fix the date. The Government is trying to prove that Garry Owens, and another nephew, Charles Owens, went to Nichols avenue that night, flagged the street car, and then attempted to rob the motorman. Garry Owens is the alleged trigger-man, Charles not having been at the exact spot, according to the Government witnesses, when the shot was fired.

James A. O'Shea and John H. Burnett, defense attorneys, are attempting to show that Garry Owens was no where near the scene of the shooting. They will produce witnesses, they say, to show that Garry had nothing to do with the incident.

A bitter wrangle between Collins and O'Shea was precipitated when O'Shea asked Charles Owens, who is being used as a Government witness, if he "didn't know that the indictment against him had been nolle prossed."

"That's a lie," Collins shouted, "and you know it. He is still charged in the indictment with Garry."

The defense attorney immediately moved for the withdrawal of a juror and a consequent mistrial on the grounds of Collins' remarks. He was overruled, and the case went on. Today will mark the wind-up. The Government has rested, and only a few witnesses remain for the defense.

GermanyNeedsAid, Houghton Declares

Prosperity of World Held Contingent on Help Given Berlin.

Pittsburgh, June 9 (A.P.).—Alanson B. Houghton, former Ambassador to Germany and Great Britain, said today in a commencement address at Carnegie Institute of Technology that Germany is unable to emerge from her present economic and financial difficulties without help, and that "we can not expect a prosperous Europe, or for that matter, a prosperous United States, if Germany is in economic and financial distress and nearing the point of collapse.

"If Germany is to be afforded relief, by the remission or suspension of her reparation payments for two years or five years, or until her economic and financial situation is sufficiently improved to enable her to again take up the burden of those payments without probable collapse, that relief must be afforded by all the nations concerned and not by America alone."

The allied nations "are not groaning under the burden of what they owe us," the former ambassador said. "They pay us nothing. They act merely as transfer agents, and pay us out of the reparation payments they have forced Germany to pay them. The burden of our war debts rests directly upon the German people."

CATALAN ASSEMBLY SEEKS SOVEREIGNTY

Body, Holding First Meeting in Four Centuries, Will Draw Constitution.

Barcelona, Spain, June 9 (A.P.).—The Catalonian General Assembly held its first meeting in four centuries today, preparatory to drafting a proposed state constitution and outlining the province's desired relationship with the new Spanish republic.

Today's gathering was in the nature of a celebration and was the newly elected body will get down to actual work tomorrow. After completion of the political statute, which is expected to attempt to realize the desire of many Catalonians for a sovereign state within the Spanish republic, is completed, a referendum vote will be held. The constitution draft will then be placed before the forthcoming National Constituent Assembly for approval.

Serra Clara, a lawyer and friend of the Catalonian Provisional President, Francisco Macia, presided over today's session as the oldest provincial deputy, pending election of officers.

He asked the other 48 delegates to preserve the cordiality of relations between Catalonia and the remainder of Spain.

"The principal work of our assembly is to restore Catalonia's rightful freedom, of which she has been robbed for a long time," he declared.

Today was the first time the Catalonian Assembly has met since the free feudal state was taken over by the Spanish monarchy.

Sinclair Oil to Omit Dividend on Common

New York, June 9 (A.P.).—The Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation will omit the 25 cent quarterly dividend on the common stock due July 15, it was announced today. The regular monthly meeting of the board scheduled for Wednesday—the last at which the common dividend for the quarter could be declared—has been postponed on account of a lack of a quorum.

HEARING SCHEDULED FOR TODAY IN MEXICAN YOUTHS' KILLING

slayings to the State Department and asked a complete investigation.

Estrada declined to give his opinion or that of the Mexican government on the slayings, saying that the wheels of justice were working in Oklahoma and that it would not be appropriate to interfere with their action by interjecting opinions at this time.

"In honor of the truth," Estrada added, "I wish to say that the State Department and all the American authorities have been very diligent in handling the situation and that they have very cordially offered their cooperation to the Mexican government in clearing it up."

Ardmore, Okla., June 9 (A.P.).—At the request of M. C. Gonzales, attorney for the Mexican consul general at San Antonio, preliminary hearing for Deputy Sheriffs Bill Guess and Cecil Crosby on murder charges for the killing of two Mexican college youths was postponed late today until tomorrow morning.

Oklahoma's forces of justice converged here today for the prosecution. Charged with the murder of Emilio Cortes Rubio, cousin of President Ortiz Rubio of Mexico, and Manuel Gomez, whose homeward vacation trip from American colleges ended in death early yesterday, the two officers await the preliminary examination tomorrow in county court before Judge Charles N. Champion.

Meanwhile messages of sympathy were sent to President Ortiz Rubio from President Hoover and other high officials.

Gov. W. H. Murray of Oklahoma, who ordered a minute investigation of the slayings at the instance of Secretary of State Stimson, made plans to send the bodies to Mexico under the escort of Charles Clowe, Ardmore, his personal representative.

Funeral mass was planned at St. Mary's Church here at 9 a. m. tomorrow, with the Right Rev. A. F. Monnot, Oklahoma City, representing the Bishop of Oklahoma, officiating. The burial train will leave at 4:47 p. m.

Mexico City newspapers today carried dispatches from Morelia, home of the boys, expressing fear of anti-American demonstrations when the bodies arrive, and editorially characterized the slayings as "barbarous" and "assassinations."

Other Mexico City dispatches quoted the father of Salvator Cortes Rubio, surviving comrade of the slain youths, as saying he would return next year to St. Benedict's College, at Atchison, Kans., despite the tragedy and disclaiming any bitterness toward the United States.

Nearly 7,000 persons viewed the bodies of the youths here today and yesterday. Authorities said the two deputies were at the Carter County Jail tonight, but would not say if they were in cells. The deputies were in the custody of the sheriff throughout the day.

(Associated Press.)

The State Department kept closely informed yesterday on the progress of the investigation into the fatal shooting.

Gov. Murray of Oklahoma was asked by the department to institute a thorough examination of the incident, "in view of the possible international complications." He communicated with Secretary Stimson yesterday on the progress of the investigation.

"Further referring to the killing of the two Mexican citizens," he telegraphed, "I have to report that the State's criminal investigator and attorney general are at Ardmore aiding the investigation. I have also sent my secretary, who is a lawyer, for the same purpose.

"In addition, I have also commissioned Col. Charles Clowe to accompany the bodies to Mexico City, together with Messena Bancroft Murray to accompany Col. Clowe to the Mexican boundary."

The governor informed the Secretary Monday night he had ordered a complete investigation and would order preparation of the bodies to be taken to Mexico at State expense.

The State Department yesterday had before it a formal note from the Mexican Embassy requesting an investigation and full information, which was understood to be a request for information to transmit to the Mexican government and not a protest.

GOOD-WILL ENVOYS TO MEET TOMORROW

Capital Girl Will Give Pledge of Friendship of U. S. to French Children.

Boys and girls selected from various parts of the United States as "Envoys of Friendship" for the patriotic pilgrimage in this country and the good-will trip to England and France under auspices of the United States Flag Association will assemble at the Mayflower Hotel tomorrow morning, Col. James A. Moss, president general of the association, announced yesterday. They will be joined here by the two Washington "envoys," representing District high schools, selected in a contest recently conducted by the flag association with cooperation of The Washington Post.

John C. McDuffee, of Grand Rapids, Mich., officially designated by national headquarters of the Junior American Red Cross to represent that organization on the pilgrimage and the trip, will deliver the message of friendship from the children of America to the children of England and France at good-will mass meetings in London and Paris. Miss Catherine Dubois, of Washington, will be the girl speaker at Paris. The girl to speak at London will be selected through tests conducted on board ship.

Young McDuffee, who is 17, graduates this year from the Catholic Central High School at Grand Rapids, where he has been a member of the debating team, editor of the school papers and president of the students' council. As the result of an essay contest he was selected as spokesman for the American Junior Red Cross at the last annual convention of the Red Cross.

Because of the impression he made at this session, McDuffee was unanimously elected chairman of the Junior Red Cross division and presided with ease and poise.

Miss DuBois, who is only 16, is a student at the Holton Arms School, from which she will be graduated next year. She is the daughter of a retired naval officer, Capt. B. P. DuBois, and attended school in both Switzerland and France. She possesses charm and beauty and unusual poise for one of her age and speaks French fluently, so that she will be well able to convey the greetings of friendship from the 20,000,000 school children of the United States to the children of France in the language of the latter.

Arrangements for the two good-will meetings of children were made last month by Col. Moss, who went to London and Paris to perfect these plans. The message conveyed by the "envoys" will be one of friendship and good will from the future rulers of the United States to the future rulers of France and England and is designed through the building up of friendship among the children of today to send controversies of the future between these countries to the conference table rather than the battlefield for settlement.

Veterans' Loan Ruling Is Asked of Mitchell

(Associated Press.)

Attorney General Mitchell has been asked by the Veterans' Bureau for an opinion as to whether or not the recent act of Congress entitling veterans to loans up to 50 per cent of the face value of their service certificates did not waive the two-year waiting period of the original loan law.

Under the old law veterans were required to wait two years after applying for their certificates to borrow money.

653 Labor Rows in '30, Big Decrease, Reported

(Associated Press.)

The Labor Department announced yesterday that with the exception of one year there were fewer labor disputes in 1930 than at any time in 15 years. The monthly Labor Review published by the department will say in its forthcoming issue that there were 653 labor disputes reported in 1930 as compared with 903 in 1929 and 629 in 1928.

Her gown was of eastern blue, with a train to match, and across her corsage of a deeper blue was the ribbon of the garter. Magnificent diamonds glittered against this blue background and other diamonds formed her tiara.

The customary preparatory wait in motor cars before the three-bordered "mall" in front of the palace was a less bright spectacle than usual, from the public's point of view, because of the dull, gray evening and a threat of rain.

The debutantes within the cars, however, appeared too excited to be bothered about the weather. Some of them read or chatted with their companions, while a few attempted to play bridge.

SHREVE FIGHTS CUT IN PROHIBITION FUND

Hoover's Drive for Economy Should Not Affect Dry Bureau, He Says.

(Associated Press.)

Opposition to any curtailment of funds for prohibition enforcement under the announced drive of President Hoover to cut down all Federal expenditures was expressed yesterday by Representative Shreve (Republican), Pennsylvania, a prohibitionist. Mr. Shreve said the extension of enforcement activities by the addition of 500 agents on July 1 should not be hampered.

As chairman of the House appropriations subcommittee in charge of the Justice Department bill, he led the drive last year for the increased allotment for the Prohibition Bureau.

The Pennsylvania representative conferred Monday with officials of the Justice Department. Attorney General Mitchell has not been called upon by President Hoover to curtail expenses, but the President has indicated ways of reducing expenditures with the head of every department.

"Every dollar we have appropriated to the Justice Department will be needed during the next fiscal year to pay the ordinary running expenses of the department," Mr. Shreve said. "Any cut would hamper the courts and deter enforcement activities.

"Prohibition will face its greatest test in the next year. If the increase in the enforcement staff does not show a material increase in enforcement and a consequential decrease in violations of the law, there is sure to be a cry, greater than ever, for repeal of the prohibition laws.

"We must show in the next year that prohibition can be enforced and we can't afford to endanger in the least the result through curtailment of funds of the department.

"It is the most important question of the day and must be settled once and for all in the next fiscal year."

Clipping Bureau Sues Lindbergh for $7,914

New York, June 9 (A.P.).—The summons served on Col. Charles A. Lindbergh yesterday calls the flier into court to defend himself in an action for $7,914.62 for services allegedly rendered by a clipping bureau.

The clipping bureau charged that it was commissiond by Col. Lindbergh to collect and forward to his mother in Detroit all newspaper clippings relating to his transatlantic flight in 1927. The total was 227,132. The bureau says Lindbergh owed $7,949.62, of which the colonel was stated to have paid only $35.

Regulation Urged On Live Stock Men

Farm Board Member Tells Producers to Watch Market Trends.

Manhattan, Kans., June 9 (A.P.).—C. B. Denman, member of the Federal Farm Board, urged live stock men to adjust their operations to consumers' demands in an address prepared for delivery before the American Institute of Cooperation today.

"New producers," he said, "are constantly coming into the field as a result of temporary prosperity and are eliminated when production is unprofitable. The resulting wide variations in supplies make for inefficient distribution."

Regulation of importation and breeding were advocated. He pointed out that "the low level of cattle prices prevailing during the current year has caused a marked decline in the importations of cattle, particularly from Mexico." Hog raisers were urged to follow the lead of cattle men and sheep men in marketing their stock at lighter weights.

STIMSON ACCEPTS DEGREE BY RADIO

Pennsylvania College Also Honors Justice Roberts at Commencement.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Stimson employed the radio yesterday to accept a degree of doctor of laws conferred upon him by the Pennsylvania Military College.

The Secretary had planned to attend the commencement exercises of the institution at Chester, Pa., but was forced to cancel the trip because of pressure of business.

As the college's honors were announced at the commencement exercises, the Secretary began in Washington an address over the Columbia Broadcasting System accepting the degree. The Secretary touched upon past good will plans in settling disputes and preserving peace among nations.

"The efficiency of these methods depends in the last resort upon the fair-mindedness and spirit of good will which exist in the individual men and women who constitute the citizens of the different nations of the world," Mr. Stimson said.

"The brute inheritance of the human race is stubborn, particularly in our attitude toward men and races who are strange to us and different from ourselves. But surely, though slowly, this inheritance is being overcome."

Chester, Pa., June 9 (A.P.).—Pennsylvania Military Academy today conferred on Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson the honorary degree of doctor of laws, which he accepted by radio.

The honorary degree of doctor of laws was also conferred upon Justice Owen J. Roberts.

Cecil B. DeMille, photoplay producer and an alumnus of Pennsylvania Military College, received the honorary degree of doctor of letters.

DISTRICT TAXATION.

The people of Washington have a vital interest in the investigation that is being carried on by the House special committee on fiscal relations between the Federal and District governments. Higher or lower taxes, equitable distribution of the expenses of maintaining the National Capital, or further gouging of District taxpayers by Congress may turn upon the findings of the committee.

No opportunity is given for the people to analyze the data that are being gathered, and Chairman Mapes announces that public hearings, if any are held, will be restricted to those few witnesses who may be called by the committee. Washington is accustomed to having its public business transacted by those who know little of the city's interests, and the people are accustomed to taking no part in decisions which mean much to them. But certainly they should be entitled to be heard. How can the committee arrive at a fair and impartial decision, if it pays attention to only a few hand-picked witnesses?

Apparently the committee's chief interest is in new taxes for the District. It is known that several forms of taxation are being considered, and Chairman Mapes has explained that a more equitable and logical tax system is sought. It is quite possible that the committee may devise a means of readjusting the existing tax levies so as to more equally distribute the burden, but the hope that it will suggest any substantial relief is indeed small. Legislators are adept at inventing new sources of revenue, but they have no inclination to abolish established taxes.

The most important function of this committee is to decide what share of the cost of supporting the National Capital should be borne by the Federal Government. Higher taxes will not be necessary to provide Washington with ample revenue if Congress pays its equitable share. When that question has once been properly settled and Congress recognizes its obligation to contribute a definite proportion of the District budget, it will be time enough to consider new tax burdens upon citizens.

CONTROLLING OLD MAN RIVER.

Comparatively few persons have followed the gigantic work undertaken by Government engineers to control the Mississippi and prevent a repetition of the disaster of 1927. The projected improvements constitute a program that will require ten years for completion. The undertaking will cost a total of $325,000,000, or one-third more than the building of the Panama Canal.

Mississippi flood control, as now contemplated, is no halfway measure. The magnitude of the loss and suffering caused by the disaster of 1927 aroused Government authorities and Congress to the necessity of permanent improvements. A comprehensive engineering plan was drawn up by the Army Engineer Corps, and today upon a river front of more than 1,000 miles thousands of workmen are engaged in building levees, making them higher and stronger than ever, providing reservoirs for the impounding of excess flood water, and protecting New Orleans with a great spillway above the city.

Owing to the emergency employment of men during the present depression the work is ahead of schedule as it nears the end of the second year. The center of activity is at Vicksburg, where the Mississippi River Commission makes its headquarters and directs the heavy artillery, in the form of giant dredges, steam shovels and derricks. The power of the river almost passes comprehension. When in flood the torrent rushing past New Orleans has six times the volume of Niagara.

An interesting feature of the scientific effort being made to harness the might of the river is the establishment below Vicksburg of the United States Waterways Experiment Station. Here the various problems of flowing water, sedimentation, earth saturation and many others that confront the hydraulic engineers are worked out in advance. Miniature models are made to scale for every contemplated improvement. Exact results can be forecast and accurate estimates made, so that great savings in time and expense are effected.

In this great 100-acre, outdoor laboratory the labor of Dr. Herbert D. Vogel, of the engineers, is aptly described as giving a solid, scientific foundation to every detail of the flood control system. Two practical purposes are back of this research; first, to build a system of permanent control, which anticipates the ultimate flood possibilities and which with the necessary annual supervision and upkeep will stand against the highest water; and, second, to do this at the most economical expenditure practicable. Not only in this modern laboratory but over the long stretch of the river, there is engaged a strong force of Army engineers, not only doing a big job, but devoting enthusiastic energy to the success of this greatest peacetime engineering work ever undertaken by the Government.

PROTECTION OF FARMERS.

Coming at a time when an organized onslaught against the American tariff is in full sway, Secretary Hyde's address before the annual trade conference of the American Institute of Cooperation sounds a radically discordant note. "Some countries have tariffs so mountainous," he said, "as to make our tariff wall look like a clutter of molehills." It is a forbidden heresy among Democrats to believe that any import duties in the world are higher than those of the United States. But the ugly facts speak for themselves, and the best that the free-traders can do is to ignore them.

Secretary Hyde selected fourteen leading export commodities to test the height of foreign tariff barriers. He found that all of them faced import duties in a dozen or more foremost importing countries. Many of the duties, he says, are double and quadruple any rates than can be found in the American tariff act. Democrats are scandalized by a 42-cent duty on wheat in this country. Yet that compares with a duty of $1.62 in Germany, 37 cents in Italy, 35 cents in France, 60 cents in Greece, 30 cents in Canada and 90 cents in Mexico. Foreign duties on dairy products are similarly high. On leaf tobacco the United States' duties range from 35 to 50 cents per pound. The United Kingdom, which takes 40 per cent of the tobacco exported from this country, levies a tariff of $2, and some countries virtually prohibit tobacco imports.

The study made by Secretary Hyde shows that many countries have levied duties on meats from three to five times as high as the American tariff. In Soviet Russia and Turkey the duties on hams and shoulders, for example, range from 20 to 25 times as high as those of the United States. Every country is trying to build up its own food supply. During the war agriculture in Europe was at a low ebb and the countries drew heavily upon the United States for food. After the war high duties were levied to stimulate farm production. The result was to deprive American farmers of many export markets they had become accustomed to supplying. Yet the American market still remained open to vast quantities of agricultural products from abroad. Thanks to the tariff act of 1930 those imports have been drastically reduced, and the American farmer now has turned the balance of foreign trade in his favor.

About 90 per cent of the products of American farms, says Secretary Hyde, are directly affected by foreign competition. Farmers can not prosper unless they are given protection in their home market. The American standard of living on the farm can not be maintained if agricultural producers are exposed to the competition of foreign peasants who exist on a few pennies a day.

CRIME PREVENTION.

It becomes more evident every day that crime prevention work is more important than the punishment of crime, and also that many of the present forms of punishment result in more crime and produce hardened criminals instead of reformation. The New York State Crime Commission has given much study to this question and finds a necessity for coordination of work among children, particularly the neglected children of the slums.

Recent investigation indicates the importance of eliminating the conflicting and overlapping work of various social agencies. The efforts that are directed toward crime prevention must be integrated with other welfare agencies of the community. This involves bringing together the different activities sponsored or conducted by public officials and employes, social workers, business and professional men and parents. With general cooperation it would be possible to avoid many of the evils of segregation and provide for continuous group and case guidance of delinquents.

Col. Arthur Woods, formerly police commissioner of New York and more recently in Washington heading the Federal unemployment work, has for years been an earnest advocate of organized effort among the children of the congested districts of the cities to give them primarily opportunity for exercise and healthful amusements. Every effort should be exerted to keep the prison stigma from both young and old who have committed minor offenses. The prison term too often simply improves the technique of the first offender and hardens his resentment against law-abiding citizens.

The obligation upon society to protect children from the contacts that lead to lives of crime is stressed by Col. Woods, but he also urges the necessity of a different treatment for the hardened criminal. Instead of arresting known delinquents and sentencing them for short terms, only to be released repeatedly to return to their nefarious ways, he would give them indeterminate sentences. Lepers and smallpox patients, he points out, are not tolerated in society; infectious patients are isolated until they are no longer a menace. In the same way the criminal should be isolated until it is felt that he will no longer make trouble for the community.

CONQUERING EPIDEMICS.

The two hundredth anniversary of Washington's birth, which will be celebrated next year, is throwing into relief the great changes that have transpired since his time. In no field is the contrast more striking than in conditions of health. The great pestilences that wiped out settlements two hundred years ago have now been brought under control. Many of the diseases which were unknown or misunderstood took heavy toll among the colonists, but today they are greatly diminished if not almost eradicated.

Except for quinine in the case of malaria and vaccination for smallpox, the early settlers in this country knew virtually none of the methods now in use to prevent or cure disease. Vaccination was introduced in America about 1800, and in 1813 Congress approved "An act to encourage vaccination," by distributing the vaccine throughout the States. Although the efficacy of this preventive is well established, even today it is not universally practiced, and though there is much less smallpox than a century or two ago it is still reported in the United States.

Measles is another disease that is still common today, but it is so much milder than the disease in the time of Washington as to be almost a different malady. The great epidemic of measles that swept the country in 1781 was a serious affliction. Patients were racked by chills and fevers which terminated in a "sweat that left a continual cough." The cough whose significance was unknown to the colonists was, of course, a sign of tuberculosis.

Typhoid fever was called "bellyache" in some instances and considered to be the result of improper diet, as were dysentery and other intestinal diseases. Diphtheria was known as "angina maligna," and this, with influenza, which had not been isolated at that time, did deadly work. When these epidemics became intense, whole villages and towns were deserted in some cases in an effort to escape from the plague. There is a record of Jamestown being abandoned because of the severity of its "epidemicals."

Today we find diphtheria has been almost exterminated. The purification of city water and the pasteurization of milk have made typhoid fever a vanishing disease. Scurvy, which was almost universal among the poor at certain seasons, is now controlled by proper diet.

The Public Health Service has discovered that one of the most unhealthful practices in which it can indulge is to tell the public that too much meat is not healthful in the summer time.

The only hope for Uncle Sam now is to plead poverty so eloquently that Europe will be shamed into paying all its debts, instead of that small portion of them which America has agreed to accept as full payment.

Gifford Pinchot abolishes the coal and iron police. Guess he wants to use them against the power trust.

It is difficult to predict what Senator Norris will do now that Gov. Pinchot agrees with him about the power trust.

Blood is thicker than water, and it boils quicker.

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., June 9.—An incomprehensible suggestion constantly appearing is that our taxpayers should pay the nations of Europe billions of dollars for disarming. This is presumably by a cancellation of their debts. It is difficult to connect cancellation and disarmament.

In the first place Europe agreed with Germany in the Versailles Treaty to disarm. That was part of the consideration for German disarming. To say the agreement was only to initiate disarmament is close to a quibble over words. The whole spirit of the treaty is reduced armaments. There is no provision that we should pay for it.

In the next place the only logical reason why one nation should make any payment to another in relation to armaments is when they are to be increased by the receiving nation for the benefit of the paying nation. Our people believe in the principle of disarmament as a method of peace and relief from the burdens of expense armaments impose. We have disarmed on land and surrendered our place on the sea. We wanted less naval strength than others demanded. The suggestion that we should pay foreign nations for doing them the favor of helping them reduce their armament costs is hard to understand. CALVIN COOLIDGE.

THE HORSE SURVIVES

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Kentucky pardonably concerned over the misleading and inexact news emanating from Washington about the status of the horse in a mechanized army should be cheered over the more recent dispatches from Newman, N. Mex. The First Cavalry Division, in maneuvers "demonstrating the utility of modern cavalry," announces that Alvarado has fallen before the force of its "Brown" army.

Lexington, well aware of its place as one of the five headquarters of the Remount Service, doubtless was ready to quote the statements of Generals Pershing, Liggett, Parker, Summerall and Marshals French and Haig, published in the Enquirer, announcing cavalry as useful as ever. But if the War Department subordinate who failed to make himself clear and the Washington correspondent who sent the news of the outmoding of the Army horse had been right the Blue Grass could still have reassured herself.

Though the Army has more horses than before the World War, and the work of the remount is going on in its work for the future, the horse bears every evidence of survival. Emancipated as a beast of burden and drudgery, the figures of the Bureau of Animal Industry show him numerous and prosperous.

J. G. Williams, the head of the horse section of that bureau, announced not long ago that the number of horses used for recreation was greater than at any previous time in the history of the Nation. Nearly a quarter of a million of them are in regular use on bridle paths, in polo and on dude ranches.

Not only is the saddle industry increasing, but the horse shows are growing. The National Association of Horse Shows reports 20 additional shows this year—76 major shows in all. Boston, Oakland, the American Royal at Kansas City and the International at Chicago now vie with the New York and Dublin shows. The Kentucky Horse Show at Louisville still holds its peculiar distinction for the gaited animal.

The furor occasioned the country over by the announcement of the doom of the horse is the best sign of a national interest in him.

EXPERIENCE.

They told me over and over again
The things that I had to learn,
They struggled to save me the needless pain
Of many a sting and burn;
But I was young, and I would find out
The truth of the dangers they talked about.

And now I know what they knew, and I
Have children of my own;
And the day will come when they'll want to try
Their strength in the danger zone,
For the way seems level and straight and fair
And they can't believe there are briars there.

But should they take what I wouldn't take,
In spite of the needless tears?
Should age regret that it can not make
A short cut through the years?
How sad were youth if it really knew
As much as the worn-out oldsters do!

In spite of the truths which the grownups know
And the thick books on the shelves,
It is well that the youngsters still must go,
Some lessons to learn themselves.
For a horrible sight would a young man be Weighed down by the wisdom of seventy-three.

The Pump Can't Get Results if There Is No Water in the Well.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE explanation of clear speaking is clear thinking.

The world's great teachers express themselves clearly and simply because they know what they wish to say.

When you read a book to "improve your mind" and find it tiresome because the author's meaning is hidden in long and complicated sentences, do you blame yourself and confess that the book is "too deep for you?"

You do the author too much honor.

He isn't deep. He is merely baffled. His convictions are not clear. He doesn't know his subject. And he makes the reader suffer because he gropes and experiments to make clear a thought that isn't clear to himself.

When a speaker seems to be groping for words, he is in reality groping for a thought. The moment the thought is formed crystal-clear in his mind, the words to express it are ready on his tongue.

When a number of people begin to discuss some topic of interest to all, few if any speak coherently and intelligibly. They hem and haw. They begin sentences that start somewhere and then peter out without saying anything. They hold the floor long enough to recite the Ten Commandments, and at last surrender without having expressed a single thought.

Do you know why they fail so miserably?

Because they began talking without knowing what they intended to say.

Their thoughts hadn't jelled. They had no idea ready to be dressed in words. But they were eager to talk; and when the first lull appeared in the conversation, they leaped into the opening with the first words that came to hand, hoping by means of noise alone to hold the floor until their thoughts became clear.

The stammering and stuttering in an ordinary discussion is merely a notice of intention to speak, and its purpose is to keep the other fellow quiet while the speaker's thoughts are forming.

So in public speaking and in writing, the use of unnecessary words is a confession of muddled thinking.

People talk best when they are "talking shop" because they know what they are talking about.

People who have difficulty in "saying what they mean" haven't found the real difficulty. They don't know what they mean. The words to express their thought will appear by magic when the thought is hatched.

Since both have presidential aspirations, and since both are one-idea men, which is perhaps a little more polite way of saying they are fanatics, there is really no occasion for surprise that Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland should upset the program at the governors' conference at French Lick, and discuss their hobbies.

Mr. Pinchot is afflicted with the mania for baiting public utility interests. He has been harping on the "power trust" for several years, and managed to get elected governor of Pennsylvania last year by picturing the power interests as an octopus that was squeezing the life out of the people of the Keystone State. There is not the least doubt that Pinchot when he ran for governor on the power issue was endeavoring to lay the predicate for a race for the Presidency on that same issue.

It was too much to expect that the Pennsylvania governor, obsessed with hatred of the power interests as he is, could be induced to appear at an important gathering, and omit a characteristic tirade against public utilities. Reforestation is not an issue big enough to run for President on. Evidently, the program committee was trying to play a joke on Mr. Pinchot by putting him down for a speech on so tame a subject.

There are those who believe that the present depression marks a turning point in American life. They maintain that this is not merely another trough in the recurring business cycle, but a failure of the foundations of the economic structure, which must either be strengthened at once, or the whole edifice will crash to the ground, necessitating complete rebuilding.

At Valley Forge, President Herbert Hoover showed that he does not share that view, and that he has not changed the opinions and beliefs he held as Secretary of Commerce. He held then, and he holds now, that while Government can by unwise action injure business, and by wise action give it a certain amount of help, the main problems of business can be solved by business alone; and that the best way in which Government can help business in the solution of these problems is to let business cope with them without interference, and that it must be responsible for the results. That is why he is opposed to a special session of Congress, which in his belief would do more to unsettle the minds of men by proposing and discussing various panaceas involving legislative intervention than it would do good by trying to shoulder the burden which business men now bear.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Lively Old Man Should Retire and Give Others a Chance—Brief Study in Economics.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your leading editorial of June 8, on "American Capital Abroad," was a splendid help toward Americans getting their economics on straight. It seems to me that for several years past most everybody in this country and especially some of our leading men have had their economics on wrong side out. In 1929 the stock market was boosted above the blue sky and economists said common stocks were not too high, that the equity in them made them better buys than bonds.

Unlike Europe we have in this country 48 big provinces with free trade with each other. If our manufacturers would be more contented with this magnificent home market and not endeavor to swipe the industry that belongs to such countries as Italy, Germany, France and England, better relations would prevail with those countries. At all hazards we must protect ourselves from foreign nations "dumping" their excess products on us.

I wish you could give us a strong editorial on this unemployment question. I hold that if we have 5,000,000 men out of work it is due, first to the machine age we are in. We are constantly throwing men out of work, perfecting machines to do their work. Second, men above 50 who have acquired a competence persist in holding onto their jobs. The press is constantly lauding men like Baker, Edison and Holmes, who insist on working at the age of 90 or thereabouts, when they should be out in the fields studying the birds. John D. Rockefeller seems to be the only one who betrays a lick of sense, playing golf and giving away dimes. Third, thousands of parents who work hard are allowing their boys to grow up without useful occupations. These boys graduate from the picture theaters and pool rooms into crime. Our machines are a good thing and they should give us more leisure, but not among the boys, who should be in school or at work.

Week-End Motor Casualties Raises Question of Paganism Among Americans.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The first paragraph of The Post's Monday morning three-column account of week-end automobile accidents says, "Three men were killed and more than a score of other persons were injured in Sunday traffic crashes in Washington and nearby Virginia and Maryland yesterday."

We swell with pride in our Christian civilization when we read that in pagan times men were "butchered to make a Roman holiday." And yet it is a question whether our holiday death toll is not greater from year to year, than that of old Rome. About the only difference is that reckless and stupid motorists have taken the place of the gladiator and the wild beasts of the Roman arena.

The gods of the past did not stimulate a great deal of human sympathy, and it may be that by reason of our higher moral concepts we are less callous to human suffering than were the ancients. But that we are still influenced by some trace of paganism seems to be indicated by the fact that the appalling mortality of our streets and highways is a tribute to the Moloch of speed.

I have faith that the time will come when week-end motor tragedies will decrease instead of increasing from year to year. It will be a long step in that direction when traffic experts seriously undertake the task of fixing the speed beyond which it is homicidal for the average motorist to drive. W. T. T.

Correspondent Intimates That Inferior Material and Workmanship Enter Into Washington Building Operations.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: For some time past we have read and heard a great deal about the alterations of old and erection of new, elegant and impressive buildings in an effort to make our beloved Washington the most beautiful city in the world. This is good.

I have been a resident of Washington for over 30 years, and I have seen many changes in that time, good and bad. Now let me ask a question: How can fine, beautiful and lasting buildings be erected where cheap and inferior materials, ignorant and careless labor and irresponsible inspectors are used and employed? "Huckstering hids" is an ugly expression, especially when used in connection with the work on our magnificient cathedral (and other churches) for which "silver and gold and precious stones" have been contributed from all over the world.

Will some of your intelligent readers please answer the question?

Dr. Morgan Wonders How Eskimos Would Get Asparagus and Oranges.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am somewhat intrigued by your article in Saturday morning's Post under the caption, "U. S. Controversy Stirred by Advice to Reduce Meat."

The part of that article which interests me most is the implied reason for not eating meat in summer is that the dwellers in the Arctic regions "choose" to eat animal foods in preference to other articles of diet, in order to maintain heat and energy. Let us suppose that they should decide to live upon a diet of less animal food and more fruits and green vegetables, such for instance as asparagus, green peas, Avocado pears, strawberries, oranges and the like. Our scientists would have to develop a new variety of such succulent foods which would grow in their snow-filled back yards and upon their icy lawns.

Bachman Will Motor to West Virginia Soon; Others Going.

SERVING as a pleasant barrier to hasty departure from Washington by members of Congress, school days and the press of politics have kept within the gates several engaging families of the groups closely allied with "the hill." Representative Carl G. Bachmann, of West Virginia, who has been at his home in Wheeling for a few weeks, will motor to Washington late this week and on Sunday or Monday will accompany Mrs. Bachmann and their sons and daughters back to their country place, Woodsdale, near Wheeling. Mr. and Mrs. Bachmann and Susan Jane will stay at Woodsdale through the summer but Charles and Gilbert will join the boys' camp, Camp Greenbriar at Alderson, W. Va., for a part of the summer. Mrs. Bachmann will return to the Cathedral avenue house in the fall in time for the opening of the school term.

Representative and Mrs. C. William Ramseyer, kept in town by the school "contract" entered into by their young daughters, Jane and Barbara, have delayed their departure for their Iowa home until mid June. The same link will bring them back early next fall.

Mrs. Wallace White, jr., wife of Senator White, is still at their home on Tracy Place where she awaits the arrival on June 26 of Senator White from Copenhagen, where he served as representative on the Radio commission at a recent world conference. Later the Whites will go to their summer home in Auburn, Me. They will divide the summer months between Auburn and the Rangeley Lakes section where they have a camp.

Also in town are Representative and Mrs. Fred A. Britten who, however, will go to Montauk Point, Long Island, early in July to remain for the rest of the summer.

Justice James Clark McReynolds, who has been in New York since Sunday, will sail today on the Mauretania to pass some time in Europe and Justice and Mrs. Edward Vandeventer will go to New York the end of the week, and will sail on Sunday for Germany to pass the summer at Wiesbaden.

In town for a few days are Representative and Mrs. Samuel A. Kendall, who are at the Shoreham, but will shortly return to their home in Meyersdale, Pa., for most of the summer. They will come here again early in the fall.

Hoovers Receive New York Visitor.

The President and Mrs. Hoover received Mr. Louis Wiley and his sister, Miss Carrie Wiley, of New York, yesterday at noon at the White House. After spending a short time in Washington, Mr. Wiley and Miss Wiley returned to New York.

Col. and Mrs. Marley will spend next week at West Point, N. Y. The former is on duty in Washington, where he is attached to the general staff.

Mr. John Joy Edson and his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Edson and the latter's children, Miss Elizabeth Edson and Gilbert Edson, will delay their departure from town for a summer holiday until August, when they will go to Atlantic City for four or five weeks.

Mr. Henry C. Rowland, widely traveled author of many books, war correspondent and lecturer, will be the guest of honor and speaker at the Arts Club tomorrow evening. His subject will be "Three Wars."

Miss Isabel McDougall will be the hostess of the evening.

Marriage Announcement Is Made by Parents of Bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Carroll announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Audrey Bernice Carroll, to Mr. Ralph Fichter, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Fichter, of Lawrenceburg, Ind. The Rev. Melvin Riddle officiated at the ceremony which took place in the Presbyterian Manse at Chambersburg, Pa., Saturday, May 23.

Mrs. Fichter attended Central High and the normal schools of Washington and has been engaged in the teaching profession since her graduation.

Mr. Fichter is a graduate of George Washington University Law School, a member of the Indiana State bar, and a practicing attorney in the District of Columbia.

Immediately following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Fichter left for a short trip.

After a summer tour Mr. and Mrs. Fichter will be at home to their friends.

Mrs. Duncan Elliott, wife of the military attache at the American Embassy in Istanbul, will come late in the summer from the Near East, accompanied by her son, Duncan Elliott, jr., whom she will place in a school near Washington preparatory for the Naval Academy.

It will be Mrs. Elliott's first visit to this country since the appointment of Maj. Elliott to Istanbul. While here she will be the guest of her sister, Miss Emma Perley Lincoln. Miss Lincoln will leave Washington June 20 for Los Angeles as one of the representatives of the Bicentennial Commission at the National Education Association convention there the first week in July. En route home, Miss Lincoln will visit her family in Minneapolis.

Col. and Mrs. Louis S. Chappelear have issued invitations for a dinner at the Shoreham Hotel on Friday. Covers will be laid for 22.

Mrs. Robert Whitney Imbrie entertained eight guests at luncheon yesterday at her apartment on Sixteenth street in honor of Mrs. J. Following the sessions there Mrs. Strong and Mrs. Wailes will go to Geneva for the League of Nations conference and later will travel through Europe.

Miss Wildman Has Beautiful Church Bridal

Becomes Mr. Hickox's Wife at Metropolitan Baptist.

The marriage of Miss Louise Pauline Wildman, daughter of Mrs. Lillian No. Wildman, to Mr. Malcolm Hickox, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Hickox, took place last evening at 8 o'clock at the Metropolitan Baptist Church, with the Rev. John C. Ball officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Francis M. Noell, wore a gown of ivory satin, made along princess lines, with long sleeves. An appliqued lace band held the veil close around her head and she carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor, Miss Margaret Wildman, sister of the bride, was dressed in yellow and carried an arm bouquet of talisman roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Virginia Lee Allen, Miss Alma Hickox, Miss Elizabeth Drake and Miss Marie Reichman.

The best man was Mr. Vinton Koons, and the ushers included Mr. Roy Wildman, Mr. Edwin Frantz, Mr. Leigh Kenyon and Mr. Herndon Maloney. An informal reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Hickox will make their home in Washington.

Mrs. Thomas Ash Claytor and her daughter, Miss Louise Claytor, will leave the end of the month for North Hatley, Canada, where they have a cottage for the summer. Dr. Claytor will join them there in August.

Prof. T. Giannini, of Rome, is passing a few days in Washington before going to New York from where he will sail for Europe on June 19. Prof. Giannini has been in this country for some time lecturing on economic subjects. He is connected with the emigration offices in Rome.

U. S. Envoys Have Pleasant Leaves Here

Ambassador Culbertson Among Those Renewing Home Ties.

Arrivals and departures of members of the foreign service are difficult to catalogue, so many "future statesmen" have come to Washington in the past few days in the course of leave of absence from their posts.

Heading the list is the United States Ambassador to Chile, Mr. William S. Culbertson, who is staying at the Cosmos Club for the duration of his two-months' vacation. Mrs. Culbertson is in Santiago, where Miss Junia Culbertson will join her shortly, having sailed Monday from New York.

Mr. Fletcher Warren, for four years connected with the State Department in Washington, and more recently consul at the United States Legation at Barranquilla, Colombia, is here for a few days. He will leave soon for his home in Texas to spend two months' leave in Wolfe City, proceeding then to Budapest where he has been assigned as consul. Mrs. Warren did not accompany her husband here, remaining at their Texas home during his visit to the Capital.

Mr. Elbridge Gerry Greene, First Secretary of the United States Embassy in Buenos Aires, accompanied by Mrs. Greene, will sail for this country on Monday to spend his 60 days' leave of absence, and Mr. Julius Wadsworth, third secretary of the legation in Bogota, Colombia, now at his home, Long Hill, in Middletown, Conn., will come to Washington to spend part of his leave before returning to his post.

Mr. T. Monroe Fisher, of the State Department, well known in Washington, where he has spent much of his life, has been assigned special duty in Santa Marta, Colombia. He has been vice consul at Tela, Honduras, for three years.

Another young man of the foreign service, Mr. Carlos J. Warner, vice consul of the United States Embassy in Buenos Aires, is in the Capital on leave from his post.

The First Secretary of the United States Legation in Budapest and Mrs. S. Pinckney Tuck are at the New Weston in New York, preparatory to sailing for Europe where the former will resume the duties of his post. The Tucks spent a short time in Washington in the early spring as guests of Mrs. Tuck's parents, Representative and Mrs. James M. Beck. Mrs. Tuck was formerly Miss Beatrice Beck.

Lawrence Townsends To Go to Adirondacks.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Townsend will leave the end of the week for their summer camp at Schroon Lake in the Adirondacks. The camp is located near the Oscar Seagle Music Colony, and Mrs. Townsend will have ample opportunity for hearing the performances of many new prima donnas of the future.

Mrs. Townsend recently received an interesting message from London, saying that King George and Queen Mary, accompanied by the former King of Spain and the Duke and Duchess of York, occupied the royal box at the opera when they heard Rosa Ponselle for the first time, last week.

Mr. Ernest L. May, of 1627 Nineteenth street, and his cousin, Miss Ruth Cooke, of Virginia, entertained at dinner last night in honor of Capt. Earl Shipp, U. S. N., and Mrs. Shipp, who have just come to Washington for station from the West Coast. Among the guests were Mrs. Hempstone, Capt. and Mrs. Henry Williams, U. S. N.; Capt. and Mrs. Lewis Coxe, U. S. N.; Commander and Mrs. L. K. Hill, U. S. N.; Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. P. H. Weems, U. S. N.; Col. and Mrs. Andrew D. Chaffin, U. S. A.; Lieut. and Mrs. Malcom Lawton, U. S. Miss Craighill to Wed West Point Man.

The wedding of Miss Wilhelmina Laird Craighill, of Leesburg, Va., and Lieut. Nash Cron, U. S. A., West Point, class of 1931, and son of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Anton C. Cron, of Washington, will take place in the Episcopal Church at Leesburg at 8 o'clock, June 17, the Rev. George Peyton Craighill, rector of the church, officiating.

The bride, who is a graduate of Hannah Moore Academy, will have eight attendants, including her sisters, as matrons and maid of honor. Lieut. Cron will have eight of his classmates to serve as ushers, the event taking on quite a military air.

Miss Craighill is the niece of Mrs. Mary du Pont Laird, of Wilmington, Del., and of the Rev. and Mrs. F. Bland Tucker, of Georgetown.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Lawson, after an absence of three years in Johannesburg, South Africa, where Mr. Lawson is United States trade commissioner, returned to Washington a few days ago for an indefinite stay. They were the guests in whose honor Dr. and Mrs. Everett M. Ellison entertained at dinner at their home in M street last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall are in Nashville, Tenn., where they went to attend the graduation of their eldest son, Mr. Jack Marshall from Vanderbilt University, today. They will return to their home on Tracy Place Friday. Mr. Paul Marshall, their younger son, who is a student at Amherst, will return to Washington later in the month.

Artist Joins Smart Colony In Newport

Douglas Chandor Leases Hill Top Villa Owned by Grosvenors.

Mr. Douglas Chandor, who now resides in New York, having lived in Washington a year or more ago, will join the smart colony in Newport for the summer months. He has leased Hill Top, the villa owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Grosvenor, and will shortly become established there.

Mr. Chandor, noted British artist, was popular in smart circles in the Capital when he resided here, and this summer will have opportunity to renew many acquaintances among Washington people at the fashionable resort.

He has had a notable career for a youthful artist. His first portrait of Sir Edward Marshall-Hall was hung "on the line" at the British Royal Academy Exhibition, and his rise to the front ranks of the portraiture masters followed rapidly with pictures of British royalty. He was the first painter commissioned to portray the Prince of Wales.

Maj. and Mrs. Ernest Clark, of Scranton, Pa., are in Washington for a brief visit, and are at the Potomac Park Apartments.

Maj. Martin F. Scanlan was host to a party of twelve at dinner at the Shoreham last evening.

Civic Association Dinner Held at Club.

Bryant, Mrs. H. J. P. Starr, Miss Harlean James, Miss A. Ungern-Sternberg, Mrs. Edward R. Padgett, Miss Mary Kempt and Miss Ruby Anderson. Mr. Frederic A. Delano, president of the American Civic Association, presided.

The Cottage City Woman's Club held its annual banquet last evening at the Dodge Hotel. Covers were laid for 30 guests. Mrs. Rudolph S. Allen, president of the County Federation of Women's Clubs, was the guest of honor.

The following officers for the new year were installed: Mrs. W. L. Pres-

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

THE VALUE OF A PERGOLA.

UNFORTUNATELY many gardens in this country are wasted. They are frequently planned and planted and carefully tended, but never lived in. An arbor frequently provides an atmosphere of livableness to a garden, which is needed to encourage living in it, assuring protection from the sun and inviting repose. In a formal garden a pergola is a stately form of decoration.

While a pergola is a form of decoration on a large estate, it is frequently a real necessity in a smaller garden, where there may be a total absence of shade. Here, however, much thought must be given to the placing of the arbor.

Too frequently it is in the center of the grass plot, where it is neither satisfying nor useful. To be really ornamental as well as useful it must have sufficient background to make it a part of the landscape.

When planting a pretentious pergola or a simple arbor, keep in mind that white trellises or arbors are hardest to cover effectively with vines. They stand out from the garden rather than falling into place.

Sometimes, if the house is white with green or blue blinds, it is possible to combine the two colors in an arbor. Here, however, the proportions should be the reverse of those used on the house, a little white and much green or blue will look better.

A pergola is of Italian origin. The original pergolas were built with many kinds of poles but always with a roof of poles which could be easily moved and entwined with vine tendrils. These irregular poles are soon covered with a mantle of green leaves.

Should a few poles remain bare they will cast long shadows and add to the picturesque effect of the arbor. Climbing vines on porches or on walls or on old tree trunks or pergolas or even clambering freely over the tops of bushes have a more charming and natural effect than any other material at the command of the horticulturist. But they require careful handling if they are to fit into a garden picture.

A trellis of light wood, if well placed and intelligently planted, will be radiant in June when covered with Dorothy Perkins ramblers and again in August when smothered with fragrant clematis paniculata.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Jane Engle INTERPRETS the MODE

New York, June 9.

YOU'RE in for a number of surprises in your coats for coolish summer days and early fall and though I may seem a bit premature in telling you of them now, "forewarned is forearmed" and it's exactly in the arms that these surprises are due to appear.

First of all, everybody is talking about the way the sleeves in our new coats are going to be set on. The idea is to have the mounting as inconspicuous as possible. None of the dressier coats will have the sleeves simply mounted at the shoulders as of yore. Neither is the effect like dolman or raglan sleeves but somehow in some way, that is a secret of the haut couturiers, the sleeves are incrusted into the body of the coat and a beautiful smooth line thereby attained. Heim, Tollmann and Dupuy-Magnin all use this new method of mounting sleeves and that is going to be one of the distinguishing features that will stamp a coat as of the newest vintage or not.

Another fancy of the haut couturiers is to use fur on cloth coats exactly as if it were part of the fabric itself—that is as far as the sleeves are concerned. Lanvin has a coat in which the whole upper section of the sleeves are of flat fur cut exactly in one with the sleeve. Maggy Rouff uses fur in this way, too, and applied to the middle section of the sleeves in points or squares or diamond shapes. No longer can it be said about the majority of new coats that they are trimmed with fur collar and cuffs. The fur collar part is all right but cuffs in the way we once knew them, appearing in the general vicinity of the bottom of the sleeve simply don't exist any more. However, Maggy Rouff has a coat on which something which might be called cuffs appear—(the coat is collarless)—but they are entire fox skins complete with head but with no tail coiled about the sleeves, one on each arm and with the heads coyly nestling above the elbow. Nothing could be more lavish.

* * * *

One of the happiest things in these happy June days is the garden—because of the opportunity it gives us to wear our very prettiest and frilliest and gayest frocks to the smart parties that are being given among the flowers. And because all of us don't have constant need of a garden party frock, but lots of use of an attractive, summery one, I designed one for you today that could be used for any informal summer evening occasion. This one is of pale green silk organdie, oddly incrusted and with perfectly adorable little cape-sleeve arrangements that tie in saucy bows. And the lady's hat, my darlings, is a great, floppy one made of pale green horsehair— and its gay transparency tops the costume correctly and picturesquely.

* * * *

Do, by all means, buy yourself frocks that would do for a garden party if one came along—and for happy summer evenings if they didn't. And your best choice along this line would be one of organdie in your favorite pastel shades.

* * * *

'N' have you ever seen a more adorable or more coquettish hankie than the one I have sketched for you today, of four squares of lace that slip over your wrist, and float there in languid grace?

* * * *

The Dare department of The Washington Post is just waiting for your stamped, self-addressed envelope to send you this week's illustrated leaflet about the most wonderful dress in the world. Yes, honestly now, it's a dress that is perfect for the office in summer, it's smart enough for street wear, it has lots of features that the busy little housewife would appreciate—and it's easy and inexpensive to make.

* * * *

You haven't forgotten, have you, that the weekly Dare fashion letter appears in each Sunday's big Washington Post?

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"GEMINI."

IF June 10 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 8:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:45 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3:45 p. m. and from 8:45 p. m. to 10:15 p. m.

The astrological signs of June 10 denote a condition of restlessness, making concentration very difficult. In the late afternoon, however, the indications become very auspicious both for business and social activities. It will prove to be a valuable opportunity for clinching deals and a favorable one for entertainment.

Children born on this June 10 will, in their early years, cause much anxiety as a result of frequent ailments. Later on, they will develop along normal lines. Their characters will be firm, with great power of resistance. They are assured a considerable degree of success. They will love devotedly, and be faithful and constant.

Born on June 10, you believe in a good time, and are rather disposed to sacrifice ambition and duty in order to satisfy your desires along these lines. You live in the present, and take little thought of the future. You are surrounded by those who like you, so long as the ball can be kept rolling. Do you ever stop to think how many of your chums and cronies would stick by you if misfortune or disaster appeared on the horizon? You possess exceptional ability. You are generous and, when you pause to think, are kind and tolerant. Your personality is attractive and your sympathies—especially for the underdog—are strong. You are satisfied to exploit all these valuable traits for the gratification of ephemeral tastes, rather than for your permanent benefit.

The fates, if you will only follow the path they indicate, have destined you for a useful career, of benefit to you and to others. In any business enterprise, provided you concentrated, you would be a "wow." In the home you could not if faithful to its interests, fail to make a success. Your horoscope predicts an early period of unfruitful results, followed in later years by a rich harvest of material and mental success.

Successful people born June 10:

John Morgan, professor of Medical College of Philadelphia.

James Barbour, Secretary of War and U. S. Minister to England.

John Jacob Astor (third), capitalist.

Mimot J. Savage, Unitarian clergyman and author.

Frederick Albert Cook, explorer.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Pete, Read This!

DEAR FRANCES M'DONALD: I have just read the letter from Pete, who gave up the girl so she could have a better time. I want to say that if the girl loves Pete she will not care how little he spends on her, just so long as she knows that he loves her. And she is entitled to know! Yes, and to decide whether she wants theater tickets—or to be "Star-Eyes" to the man she loves.

Before I married I never expected my future husband to get $2.75 theater tickets, expensive dinners and taxis for me. I was satisfied if we went to a 50-cent movie or none at all because I knew he could not afford more (although he didn't tell me) and as long as we were together I was satisfied. If he had given me up, like Pete is doing "Star-eyes," instead of asking me if I wanted to take a chance on his salary, I would have been heartbroken as I was eager to marry him and do more than my share if it were necessary. I think it is terribly inconsiderate and unfair for a man to "drop" a girl he loves as Peter has "Star-Eyes" without even finding out how she feels about the matter! The poor kid might have been waiting for his proposal and a chance to tell him money wasn't all that counted in her life. Pete may feel like a hero, but he does not look that way to me.

I have been married five years and do not regret it one bit, because I would rather work and help the one I love than to work and be alone. I would hate even to think that I might have lost this man I so dearly love, just because he might have thought, in order to keep my love, he had to spend more money on me than he could afford.

Pete needs someone to shake some sense into his head for even suggesting that "Star-Eyes" is such a gold-digger without even giving the girl a chance to prove what she is made of. Perhaps she is now pining for him and wondering what she has done or who the new girl may be.

Men are such idiots at times. When will they ever learn?" "HAPPY."

If Pete does not soon write in and tell us that he has gone back to "Star-Eyes" the readers of this column will explode. All the girls who "got their man" are rushing to the defense of the girl.

Do you consider Pete a hero—or a pretty poor sport. You remember Pete wrote that he was madly in love with a star-eyed girl, but had deliberately dropped her without a word because he felt other men could give her the "things she deserved"—and he could only give her his love.

What would you have done in Pete's place?

What would you have wanted Pete to do if you were Star-Eyes?

Is it a man's duty to let the woman decide whether they shall go on or part? Is Pete a hero—or a coward?

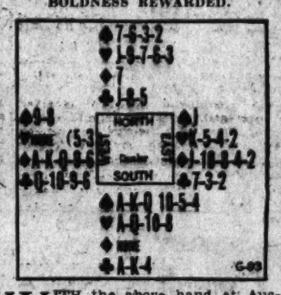
As this case is typical of our times and as Pete's story is the story of many another couple we will give space to the views of both married and single men and women.

Should a man allow mere lack of money to wreck his happiness? Is it his duty to give the woman a chance to choose?

Were you confronted with this problem? How did you decide?

Work's Bridge

BOLDNESS REWARDED.



WITH the above hand at Auction Bridge, South would bid one Spade, West two Diamonds, North pass, East three Diamonds (with the faint hope of preempting), South three Spades; West or East might bid four Diamonds to keep the flag flying, but South would lower it with four Spades. South might feel like bidding his Hearts; but in view of the much greater strength and length of the Spade suit, he would not want to put a choice up to North.

In Contract Bridge the South hand could be bid in various ways; but the result at most of the tables in the Duplicate game in which it was played was a four-Spade contract, at which extra tricks were made easily.

At one table a bold South ventured six Spades. At that table West led a high Diamond, which South ruffed with the Four of Spades and then exhausted the adversaries with two rounds of trumps. He followed this up with a small trump, winning in the dummy, and then led the Jack of Hearts from dummy. East played small and South played the ten. Next dummy led the Nine of Hearts and South dropped the Eight when East again played small. A third Heart led for a third finesse, and then the capturing of the King of Hearts was easy; but dummy did not now have an entry with which to cash its thirteenth Heart, so Declarer had to be satisfied with his small slam, not making the extra trick which was there.

THE CORRECT PLAY.

The Declarer handled his Hearts perfectly, but he should have applied the same principle to the Spades. Trick 1 should have been ruffed with the Ten of trumps. Then after two trump leads, dummy would have two trump entries because closed hand would have the Five and Four. Using one of them to put dummy in to lead the Hearts as above, would leave the dummy's last trump an entry to put dummy in to cash the thirteenth Heart, on which closed hand would discard the losing Club.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Platt" (also written "Platte," "Platts," &c.) appears to be first recorded in 1349. An English document of that year mentions a clergyman named James de Plat. This name has come down to us from two sources. It is often derived from the French "plat" meaning "the flat place," and indicates an original place of residence. The corresponding modern French family names are "Du Plat" and "Duplat." Sometimes "Platt" may be traced back to the old English "plot," and therefore means "he who lives at the plot of ground." Early instances of this name in English records are James de Plat (1349), Robertus del Platte and Johannes de Plattes (1879), and John Platt (1577).

The family name "Tuomey" is of Celtic origin. Its source is the Irish "O Tuama," which means "the descendant of Tuaim." The personal name "Tuaim" means "stronghold." There are a great many variations of this name. The commonest are "Twomey," "Toomey," "Towmey," "O'Tuomey" and "O'Twomey." They are all common in Munster, especially in County Cork.

The English family name "Tester" has come down to us from two sources. When it is derived from the French "Testard" it means "big head," and was originally applied as a nickname. "Testard" and its derived form "Tetard" are still fairly common as family names in France. According to another source "Tester" means "the assayer," and indicates the occupation of the persons who were first so called. This second derivation involves the interesting history of the Latin word "testa" meaning "the pot." In old French it became "teste," and took on the secondary meanings of "the refining pot" and "the testing pot." From this source we get the modern English verb "to test." The modern French word "tete," meaning "head," is merely another variation of the Latin "testa," and the same may be said for the French expression "tete a tete" (literally "head to head") which the English language has borrowed. The name "Testard" occurs several times in the Hundred Rolls.

DON'T let your wife see this or you'll spoil a wonderful chance to surprise and please her. And to save yourself some money at the same time!

It's about her charm . . . her health and attractiveness . . . and her comradeship with you.

These things are vital to both of you . . . and to your permanent happiness. Yet how often, when you get home, things seem out of sorts. She's tired and looks it. Or maybe you were going out together and she's in no mood for it. And to make matters worse supper is late again.

Washday is one of the chief causes of all this. Rough, red hands, tired back and aching muscles ruin any woman's charm. Even if she doesn't wash the clothes herself she has to worry with a washwoman—an upset household—embarrassing clotheslines. No wonder so many wives begin to age before their husbands! No wonder their healthy vitality slips away so soon. How can any woman be bright and attractive . . . and thoughtful . . . after months of such weary work. She can't . . . and you both pay the price! But you think you're saving money. So your false economy becomes a habit.

A Word to Husbands

Break it! Tell her tonight to give Manhattan a two week's trial. Think how pleased she'll be. No more "washday hangover" for her. No more wasted beauty care . . . undone by work and worry. And no more of that embarrassing "married to the washwoman" feeling for you.

Take our word for it that you'll save money. The reason is easy to see. Here at Manhattan we launder everything in soft net bags—which keep out the wear that wears out clothes. We can't prove that the first week . . . unless you visit us and see. But these net bags actually save you money by saving your clothes. Pure Palm Oil Soap plays its part too . . . and floods of soft, filtered water.

Every Manhattan Service gets this same thorough care . . . even rough dry. And every bundle comes back to you in 3 short days, instead of 4 or more.

If you believe in good investments let your wife phone Manhattan. We'll explain the service that best fits your home . . . and your budget. But show your sound judgment tonight and end her washday worries forever! You'll never regret it. Our number is Decatur 1120—and we'll be waiting for that call.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

PREVENTION OF COLDS.

IT seems difficult for physicians to agree as to anything about the common cold except that it is the most widely prevalent disorder, and is more costly than any other to business.

A group of investigators connected with Johns Hopkins have just reported that light treatment has no power to prevent colds. Their experiment was conducted with 363 people, and it lasted for 35 weeks. The treatments were begun the last week in September, just as the season for colds was beginning; and it was kept up until the last weeks in the following May, the end of the colds season.

One-half the number of people were given a weekly treatment with the mercury quartz lamp for 35 weeks. They were stripped to the waist and the treatments were alternated between the front and back. Each treatment was just severe enough to cause a very mild degree of sunburn.

A record was kept of each person, as to the number of colds he had, the number of days lost from work and the number of days of fever. Comparing the records of the half who had been treated with that of the other half, it was found that the treatments had been without beneficial effect.

As a matter of fact, those treated had had a few more colds, a few more colds with fever, and had been incapacitated a few more days. However, the difference was trivial, and the conclusion arrived at was that radiation with a mercury quartz lamp as a preventive of colds proved of no value.

On the other hand, some very good man from Cornell University have been reporting just to the contrary.

There is the same lack of agreement among those who experiment with vaccines as preventives.

In the meanwhile, the writer knows one person who had colds at intervals of, say, three months up to three years ago. At that time he had his sinuses washed out and drained, but without what is called surgical operation, and who, since that time, has not had one cold. That person appears to be willing to sit on the sidelines and watch the other fellows fight it out.

Perhaps there is to be no agreement as to any phase of the cold question until the germ which causes it is found and studied in the test tube of the laboratory. Until them the great question as to whether epidemic influenza is just an epidemic cold, grown virulent and on a world spree, or is something else, can not be settled.

S. writes: What is the treatment for pyorrhea and teeth shaking in the socket?

REPLY.

This is an advanced, long-neglected case, and the best that can be done for it is a cure in a limited sense. The teeth should be well scaled and cleaned. The gums should be treated. This includes the pus pockets at the tooth roots. The teeth should be anchored. In all probability, you need treatment to change the positions of some of your teeth. Your dentist will advise you as to your diet and as to mouth hygiene.

Do not try to hold on to these teeth too long. You may get rheumatism or neuritis out of them. Had you started caring for your mouth several years ago, you might have escaped your present problem.

MANY STILL LURED BY LOTS ON BEACH

Excellent Locations Remain and Citizens Are Urged to Buy Tracts Now.

Those who visited Woodland Beach last Sunday for the first time are still flocking into The Washington Post office to sign up for attractive summer home sites they saw during their visit to the South River side, in Maryland.

The beach appealed to hundreds of persons who took the trip out there Sunday, and many brought friends and relatives into The Post office to look over the lots offered for sale in areas adjacent to those already purchased.

Several factors have combined to make The Post's Woodland Beach development one of the most popular offerings of its kind in the history of the Capital. First of all, the price of lots has been such that few could use the "I can't afford it" excuse for failure to take advantage of the offer.

All at One Price.

All lots at the beach are offered at one price—$93—and, better still, the entire amount does not have to be paid in cash. The only requirements before becoming a lot owner are the payment of the subscription to The Washington Post and $9 in cash. The remainder of the amount may be paid in monthly installments of $3.50.

With sites for summer homes offered at this small output, Woodland Beach is attraction enough. But when the other advantages of the development are considered, it is a place where every one will want to have a summer place.

Located on two coves of the South River in one of Maryland's many beauty spots, Woodland Beach quickly catches the eye as an excellent place in which to spend the summer, away from all the disadvantages of the city during warm weather. For the sports-inclined, there are bathing, boating and fishing in the immediate vicinity, a trio of appeals hard to resist.

Just 32 Miles Away.

The location of Woodland Beach in respect to Washington is still another factor which has led to remarkable sales of lots. Just 32 miles away, it can be reached without any long hours of travel and yet it is situated in the midst of almost virgin territory. To reach it, one motors out the Defense highway toward Annapolis, turning right at Camp Parole onto Maryland State highway No. 2 across the South River bridge and then left onto Mayo road to the beach. W. B. & A. electric cars also go to Camp Parole, where visitors may secure bus transportation to and from Beach on Sundays and holidays.

There are many excellent locations remaining at Woodland Beach, but the sale is being conducted on the basis of "first come, first served," and those who call within a short time will naturally receive the choice selections. Don't delay. Drop in at The Post today and learn all about this wonderful summer colony site.

Battle on Privilege In Government Urged

Chapel Hill, N. C., June 9 (A.P.).—Claude G. Bowers, New York editor, author and historian, today told the graduating class of the University of North Carolina that Jeffersonian hostility to privilige in government is needed to prevent the "destruction of individualism, the loss of liberty and the subordination of the people to the State."

Referring to an address by Nicholas Murray Butler at the University of Virginia, in which the president of Columbia University had extolled Jeffersonian theories, Mr. Bowers said Dr. Butler had omitted mention of the keystone of Jefferson's principles —"his hostility to privilege in government."

BUY-AT-HOME DRIVE FOCUSED ON WOMEN

Council Makes Preliminary Plans for Fall Booster Luncheon Meeting.

Further evidence that few things can be done these days without the aid of women was given by the Buy-in-Washington Council at a luncheon meeting yesterday at the Willard Hotel when it was voted to seek the cooperation of feminine forces in the movement to keep business in the National Capital.

Preliminary plans were laid for a luncheon meeting this fall, to which representatives of women's organizations and representatives of all business houses in the city will be invited. Speakers will tell the women of the importance of buying in Washington, emphasizing the point that by patronizing local trade they will be benefiting themselves, their husbands and children.

A committee composed of Leon Ullman, Whitney Leary and John B. Colpoys and Robert J. Cottrell was appointed to plan the luncheon. Other details will be worked out at monthly meetings of the council during the summer.

Discussing progress of the work of the council, E. J. Murphy, its president, said the present objective is to concentrate on all trades in the effort to keep business within the District. He is completing a survey, he announced, showing just how much building business went out of the city last year. Similar surveys relative to other trades will be made he announced.

YEARS OF GRACE - - -

By MARGARET AYER BARNES

SYNOPSIS.

Next morning, after Jimmy has made love to her in the garden, Jane awakes to cold realization of the facts of life. She is horrified at what she has done. She has promised to run away with Jimmy, betray her friend Agnes, her husband Stephen and abandon her children. She can not believe it is she who had done it. But she loves Jimmy. When Stephen has gone to his office and the children to school, Jane meets Jimmy downstairs and tells him she can never go away with him, that she can not be false to her standards, her home and her friends. Jimmy leaves for Chicago after Jane tells him that if he calls and accept her decision as final, he need never return.

JIMMY—CHAPTER XII.

FIVE days later, Jimmy returned to Lakewood. He turned up, early in the afternoon, and found Jane superintending the gardener, who was spading up the rose bed in the garden. She looked up from the roots of a Dorothy Perkins and saw him standing on the terrace. She was no longer surprised that she was so easily able to dissemble her emotion. Jane had had plenty of practice in the fine art of dissembling emotion during the last five days.

"I think you'd better order another load of black earth, Swanson," she said casually, and turned to walk over to the terrace.

Jimmy stood there, quite motionless, watching her approach through the sunny garden. His face was very serious and his smile was very grave. Jane ascended the terrace steps and held out her hand to him. He took it in silence and held it very tightly.

Won't Accept Her Decision.

"You don't know what it does to me," said Jimmy, "to see you again."

"Have you accepted my decision?" said Jane.

"No," said Jimmy, abruptly, "of course not. Did you think I would?" He drew her hand through his arm and led her over to the corner of the terrace that was sheltered by the oak trees. The oak trees were just bursting into pink and wine-red buds. They did not give much shelter, but from that terace corner you could not see the rose bed.

"I asked you not to come back until you had," said Jane, withdrawing her hand from the crook of his arm and sitting down on the brick parapet of the terrace.

"Jane, you're really invincible," smiled Jimmy. "Invincibly determined as well as invincibly innocent! Do you really mean to tell me that you haven't spent the last five days regretting that you sent me out of your life?"

"I don't think that there's anything to laugh at in this situation," said Jane severely.

Protests He's Not Laughing.

"Darling," said Jimmy—in a moment he was all penitence and contrition—"I'm not laughing. I'm preserving the light touch—something very different in situations of an emotional character. But I repeat my question—haven't you been awfully sorry?"

"Of course, I've been sorry," said Jane. "I've been in hell."

Jimmy looked down at her very tenderly.

"I've been there with you, Jane," he said soberly. "Don't you think it's time you let us both out?"

Jane shook her head.

"I guess we're there to stay, Jimmy," she said. "Do you know, as far as I'm concerned, I almost hope I will stay there. The one thing that I couldn't bear would be the thought that I could ever get over you."

"Why?" said Jimmy.

"To feel the way I feel about you, Jimmy," said Jane, "and then to get over it, would be the most disillusioning of all human experiences. I'm going to keep faith, forever, with the feeling I have for you at this moment."

Note of Finality, He Says.

Behind the tenderness in Jimmy's eyes glittered the ghost of his twinkle.

"Well, that's very sweet of you, darling," he said. "But don't you think that assurance, taken by itself, is just a little barren? It has a note of finality——"

"It is final," said Jane. "That's all I have to say to you."

"Well!" said Jimmy, drawing a long breath, "I've a great deal more than that to say to you. Listen, you ridiculous child—if you think I'm going to let you ruin both our lives with a phrase——"

"Jimmy," said Jane, "I beg of you not to go into this again. I've had—really I've had—a terrible five days. But I haven't changed my mind. I haven't changed it one iota. I'm glad you're going away. I hope I don't see you again for years. It just kills me to see you. It kills me to live with your memory, but I wouldn't forget you for anything in the world." His eyes were very bright as he stood looking down at her. Jane turned her head to gaze out over the flat, sunny Skokie Valley. After a moment she spoke again. Her voice had changed abruptly. It had grown dull and lifeless. "When are you going?" she asked.

"That depends upon you," said Jimmy.

Still Refuses to Go With Him.

"If it depends upon me," said Jane, still not turning her head, "you can't go too soon."

"Jane," said Jimmy, dropping quickly down beside her on the parapet. "You—you really won't come with me?"

"No," said Jane.

"You don't want to live?"

"I'll live," said Jane tonelessly, "for Stephen and the children. That sounds very melodramatic, I know, but it's exactly what I'm going to do. There's just one other thing I want to say to you, Jimmy. I thought of it after you'd gone the other day." She turned her head to look into his eyes. "I'm never going to tell Stephen anything about this, and I hope you won't tell Agnes. I couldn't decide, at first, just what I ought to do about that. I couldn't decide whether it was courage or cowardice that made me want not to tell. I couldn't decide whether Stephen ought to know. "You see"—she smiled a little gravely—"I really felt terribly about it, and I know, no matter how dreadful the telling was, I'd feel better after I'd told it. Confession is good for the soul. I wish I were a Catholic, Jimmy. I wish I were a good Catholic, and could pour the whole story into the impersonal ear of a priest in the confessional. But I'm not a Catholic and Stephen isn't a priest. So I think I'll just have to live with a secret. I'll just have to live with Stephen, knowing that I know, but he doesn't, just what I did."

Jimmy's Sad Smile Is Very Tender.

Jimmy's sad little smile was very tender.

"You didn't do so awfully much, you know, Jane," he said.

"But I felt everything," said Jane soberly. "I think it's not so much what you do that matters, as what you feel. What I felt is somehow what I can't tell Stephen. I've never had a secret before, Jimmy. I've never had anything I couldn't tell the world. I hope—I hope you'll feel that way about Agnes. For I really feel about Agnes just the way I do about Stephen."

"I'm not going back to Agnes," said Jimmy suddenly.

Jane started at him in horror.

"You're not—going back—to Agnes?" she faltered.

"Did you think I could?" said Jimmy harshly.

"Why not?" asked Jane. Her eyes searched his. Suddenly her mouth began to tremble. "Why not—if I can—stay with Stephen?"

"Oh—my darling!" breathed Jimmy.

Must Go Back, She Tells Him.

"You must go back to her, Jimmy," said Jane. "Don't you see—if you don't, I'll have ruined her life just as if I'd gone away with you?"

"I can't go back to her," said Jimmy. He stood up suddenly and took a few steps across the terrace, then turned to look at her again. "No, Jane. If you won't come with me I'm going without you. I'm going to see the world before I die. I'm going West—out to the Coast—to sail on the first boat I can catch for the Orient. I don't know just how I'll manage it, but I'll work my way somehow."

"But you'll come back?" said Jane. She rose as she spoke and walked anxiously over to him. "You'll have to come back, you know."

"Oh, I suppose one always comes back," said Jimmy uncertainly. "I'll probably die in East St. Louis."

"But before you die," urged Jane, attempting a shaky little smile, "before you die, you will come back to Agnes?"

"Well—nothing's impossible," said Jimmy. He looked moodily down at her. "Except, apparently, one thing."

"When are you leaving?" asked Jane.

"Tomorrow, perhaps. It's Saturday, you know. I need my last paycheck."

"Then this is good-by?" They were strolling now, side by side, back to the terrace doors.

"I guess it is, Jane. Considering how you feel."

Tears Roll Down Her Cheeks.

He opened the door for her and they crossed the living room in silence. He picked up his hat from the hall table and stood looking down at her by the front door.

"Do you want me to kiss you good-by?" said Jimmy.

Jane shook her head. Two great tears that were trembling on her lashes rolled down her cheeks. She ignored them proudly.

"Well—I'm going to do it any way!" said Jimmy. He caught her roughly in his arms. In the ecstacy of that embrace, Jane knew that she was crying wildly. Suddenly, he put her from him. Without a word of farewell, he had opened the door and was gone. Jane leaned helplessly against its panels, exhausted by emotion. Suddenly she turned and ran rapidly up the stairs to the window on the landing. But she was too late. The gravel road was empty. Jimmy had disappeared around the bushes at the entrance of the drive.

DISTRICT BANKERS ACTIVE AT SESSION

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Three members of the delegation from Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, in attendance at the national convention of the institute at Pittsburgh this week, are prominent in its proceedings.

Arthur J. Linn, comptroller Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., conducts the audits and accounting conference, the first meeting of which was held at convention headquarters in the William Penn Hotel yesterday. The second session of this conference will be held tomorrow. The conference will hear talks by bank officials from different sections of the country on the following subjects: "The Development of a Bank Auditor," "Income Tax Problems," "Trust Department Accounting," "Accounting Reports for Executive Control," "Accounting and Auditing in the Foreign Department," and "Requirements of Accounting and Auditing Personnel."

Publicity Conference Today.

This morning the publicity conference will be held in the William Penn Hotel with Aubrey O. Dooley, president of Washington Chapter and assistant trust officer Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., presiding. The subjects to be discussed at this meeting were selected because of their value in the administrative work of 223 chapters throughout the country.

They are "How to Plan a Chapter Publicity Program," "How to Create and Distribute Chapter Publicity Effectively," and "How to Improve a Chapter Publication." Mr. Dooley was chairman of the institute's national publicity committee during the past year.

Yesterday, Aubrey B. Carter, national bank examiner in charge of the section of trust department supervision, office of the Comptroller of the Currency, presented a paper on the subject, "Some Features of Organization and Operation of a Trust Department, With Special Reference to Methods of Supervision, Both Internal and External." Mr. Carter emphasized the tremendous growth and development in trust department business during the past few years, particularly among national banks, those coming under the supervision of the Comptroller's office.

All officers of East Washington Savings Bank were reelected at the board of directors' meeting of organization yesterday. They are John C. Yost, president; S. H. Walker, first vice president; Lewis Fiemer, second vice president; S. Wilson Earnshaw, secretary-treasurer; Walter H. Marlow, jr., attorney.

Fuel Oil Use Grows.

That economic necessity for a lower home budget during the present business slump has brought rapid expansion in the use of fuel oil for home heating, is evidenced in the quarterly operating report issued recently by the Petroleum Heat and Power Co., largest oil heating organization in this country, which shows an increase in net earnings of more than 750 per cent for the first three months of this year as compared with the same period last year.

Canada's Wheat Crop Prospects Are Poor

Ottawa, June 9 (A.P.).—The condition of spring wheat in Canada on May 31 was the lowest in the 22-year records of the bureau, a report issued today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, said.

"The poorest prospects are in the main wheat producing Province of Saskatchewan, where the condition is even lower than after the disastrous frost of May, 1917," the report said. "The Alberta wheat crop shows the lowest condition since the spring of 1930, when drought and frost took a severe toll."

649,000,000-Bushel Wheat Crop Seen

(Associated Press.)

Winter wheat production this year was announced yesterday by the Department of Agriculture as 649,000,000 bushels, as indicated from the condition of the crop June 1, compared with 653,000,000 bushels, indicated a month ago, 604,000,000 bushels produced last year and 547,000,000 bushels, the 1925-29 average production.

The indicated production of rye is 43,800,000 bushels, compared with 50,700,000 bushels a month ago, 50,200,000 bushels last year and 46,100,000 bushels, the 5-year average. Indicated production of peaches is 78,100,000 bushels, compared with 53,500,000 bushels last year, and of pears, 23,600,000 bushels, compared with 25,700,000 bushels last year.

The condition of important crops on June 1 was: Winter wheat, 84.3 per cent of a normal; durum wheat, 72.4; all spring wheat, 87.9; oats, 84.7; barley, 77.2; rye, 74.8; hay, 76.2; pasture, 78.5; apples, 75.7; peaches, 78.5, and pears, 81.4.

Film Dividend Reduced.

New York, June 9 (A.P.).—Directors of Columbia Pictures Corporation have declared a quarterly dividend of 18¾ cents a share on the common stock. Placing the issue on a 75-cent annual basis, compared with $1.50 previously.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

A SLIGHT departure from the usual Fanchon & Marco manner will be observed in next week's stage show at the Fox Theater. Instead of the customary "idea," embodying a series of correlated acts, setting-up exercises by the Sunkist Beauties, &c., &c., the unit opening on F street Friday will consist of unrelated vaudeville turns, separately presented and each standing on its own merit, precisely as in the old days when vaudeville was vaudeville.

My present information is that this experiment is not to be made in this isolated instance alone, but is to be given a much wider test by the presentation of a similar vaudeville unit once each month until further notice or the innovation definitely proves itself a flop. If the novelty—in the Fox houses, that is; they have been doing it right along at the Earle—develops into an instantaneous hit, that eventuation, no doubt, will be looked upon as seriously as a national indication that the hour has struck for the resuscitation of vaudeville as it was known prior to the comparatively recent time when it became merely picture house "presentation."

The Fanchon & Marco vaudeville units are at least being given every chance that any "road show" of similar character would receive, even to the employment of advance agents just like the big musical comedies and revues—try and find one on tour.

Next week's Fox unit is being skillfully ballyhooed by "Bill" Roddy, a veteran agent well known to Washington newspapordom, who knows what it is all about if any one does.

All right, let's see your trained seals!

For the benefit of those who missed the Press Club preview, "Mike" Cullen, Loew's Washington panjandrum, last night put on a midnight matinee of "The Front Page" at the Columbia, but don't let that mislead you. In spite of the fact that the screening was at the Columbia, "The Front Page" will be publicly presented, beginning Saturday, at the Palace. Although this is being written hours before the appointed time of the screening, I can tell you right now that I liked it.

Times being what they are and the supposed need for drastic curtailment presumably still existing—although a statistical basis might be compiled for the contention that the need never did exist in a Washington picture house—it is a source of regret to have to report that the ax has fallen, athwart more than one neck in the first-run sector these past few days.

Isn't that band ever going to strike up the heartening, "Here Comes the Sun?"

Pardon me if I bore you, but it ought to be emphasized that if you really care anything about getting that desirable location for the National Theater Players' production of Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude," expedition should be your watchword.

Here is an epochal drama—really two plays compressed under one title, as its author has expressed it—that has been one of the marvels of the modern theater being presented at a scale of prices that would be cheap for a play no more than half so important or so engrossing. That the Washington public is not indifferent to its opportunity is manifest in the volume of business being transacted at the box office of the theater, where the sale for next week began yesterday.

Word comes from the Messrs. Cochran and Brooke and their fiscal cohorts that the sale is up to their most sanguine expectations, promising by far the greatest week in the history of summer entertainment under their aegis. If it is not, it will be an eternal blot upon the Capital's reputation for discriminating judgment.

But when you get there too late and can't get a ticket, don't come to me and ask for help—I don't know a soul down there!

Reverting a moment to the Fox, the eleven children who have been adjudged winners in the United States Flag Association's contest, recently closed, will be guests of the management on Saturday night of this week. They were invited by Manager Harry W. Crull and the invitation accepted on their behalf by Col. James Moss, president of the association.

The youngsters, according to Col. Moss, are to arrive in the Capital tomorrow and probably will remain here until Sunday. They will be received by President Hoover and other high officials of the Government while in Washington.

At the Fox, they will occupy a specially decorated box, in the manner of all distinguished visitors.

Reports trickling in from New York have it that the "Third Little Show" is a subtly sophisticated hit among the summer revues, not so rough-and-ready as the first "Little Show," with Fred Allen, Clifford Webb, Libby Holman and Al Trahan (the man who made King George laugh) but intimate and clever, nonetheless.

The two principal comics are Ernest Truex and John O'Keefe, but Beatrice Lillie it is who carries the major burden of the show on her thin but expressive shoulders. Among other things, Miss Lillie burlesques Ruth Draper's "On a Western Plain," takes digs at the British Empire in Noel Coward's "Only Englishmen and Mad Dogs Go Out in the Midday Sun," and finishes by attempting to explain the lure of Marlene Dietrich's black silk stockings.

These, of course, are the Peels of laughter of whom you have so often heard!

STOCK PRICES CLOSE WITH SLIGHT LOSSES

Early Rally to High Levels Followed by Decline in Professional Selling.

New York, June 9 (A.P.).—Financial markets lacked uniformity today. Stocks rose in the morning, but reacted in the afternoon, closing with mostly moderate losses. Grains rather marked time pending publication of the crop estimates.

The rally in share prices was fairly vigorous while it lasted, and leading issues mounted to the best prices of the recovery. However, news of the day tended to discourage bullishness and the improvement faded rapidly during the later hours. One of the depressing factors was the reduction in Western Electric's dividend.

Closing of twelve Chicago banks having a small deposit total became known here after the reaction had started. The decline in commercial loans made by Federal Reserve member banks suggested that no immediate expansion in trade activities was being undertaken.

Leading Shares Offered.

On the whole, however, the stock market was probably governed more by conditions within itself than by developments from without. Professionals who sensed increasing resistance to the upward movement as the morning rise reached its peak began to offer leading shares, especially after American Telephone had broken on news of the cut in its manufacturing subsidiary's dividend from a $4 annual basis to $3. This reduction, it was estimated, would affect Telephone's earnings for the quarter to the extent of about 30 cents a share. The stock tumbled 4 points.

Steels turned heavy. The first estimate of ingot production for the past week, made by American Metal Market, said there had been no measureable change, placing activity as 40 per cent of capacity, which was the rate given last week by this publication. U. S. Steel, partly in anticipation of a large decrease in tomorrow's unfilled tonnage statement, lost more than 2 points and was joined by Bethlehem.

American Can was down 3, Eastman 4, and General Electric, General Motors, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical, Anaconda, Consolidated Gas, Radio and Westinghouse lost a point or two. Federal Water Service skidded 6 points and Auburn about 18. Goodrich preferred rallied 11 and Western Union nearly 2 when regular dividends were declared on each. Trading volume remained light, for the turnover was only 1,900,000 shares.

Rails Hold Better.

Rails held up better than either the industrial or utility groups. Willingness of the Southern roads to join the Eastern and Western lines in the move for higher freight rates strengthens the case to be laid before the Interstate Commerce Commission. Meanwhile, freight traffic feels the seasonal letdown in business. Loadings for the week ended May 30, which, of course, included the Memorial Day holiday, were off 44,000 cars.

The Government's forecast on winter wheat as of June 1, indicating a crop of 649,000,000 bushels, was considerably below the consensus of private estimates, which had been around 680,000,000 but about a hundred million bushels above the average for 1925 to 1929. There were no figures on spring wheat. Futures closed mostly lower, although losses held to nominal amounts. Changes in corn were equally small. Cotton lost 75 cents to $1 a bale in sympathy with stocks.

Money was firmer to the extent that the supply offered at concessions from the official stock exchange rate evaporated. The large banks have been holding out for 1½ per cent and funds offered below that figure have come from private sources.

Foreign exchanges were quiet. The German mark held firm and there was a narrow advance in the Spanish peseta.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, June 9 (A.P.).—Influenced by suspension of thirteen neighborhood banks in Chicago and by rains in central and northern Alberta Province, Canada, wheat prices tended mainly downward today. A crop authority asserted that the Alberta rains would tide most of that section over for another week or so against moisture shortage effects. Meanwhile, weather predictions were for more substantial relief, including likelihood of a general break-up of drought.

Wheat closed irregular at 1 cent decline to ½ cent advance; corn unchanged to ¾@⅞ down; oats, ¼ off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10 cents.

Lowest prices of the day on wheat were reached after announcement of the neighborhood bank suspensions, but the market had shown a downward slant much earlier. The maximum setback was 1¼ cents a bushel, compared with yesterday's finish. A rally which followed the temporary increase of selling on news about the banks was associated with evening up to prepare for the Government crop report due after the close.

A decided surprise was contained in the report, a majority of traders having looked for an official estimate of about 675,000,000 bushels probable winter wheat production, whereas the actual Government figures turned out to be only 649,000,000 bushels. Furthermore, the condition of spring wheat was the lowest which the Government ever reported for June 1.

Commencement of wheat cutting in southeast Missouri was announced today and was accompanied by word that the yields were the largest in five seasons, and the quality better than in 1930. It was added that the harvest would be in full swing after the end of this week, that combines would be in the fields by Monday and that the new wheat would be in the mills by June 18. Yields were estimated at 25 to 30 bushels an acre, against a five-year average of 16.18 bushels.

Corn and oats weakened with wheat and on selling of 350,000 bushels of corn into store, here.

Provisions went lower as a result of selling ascribed to foreigners, but rallied on packers' buying.

BOND PRICES GAIN IN STEADY MARKET

Rises Center in Latins, Rails, With Industrials Holding Firm on Exchange.

New York, June 9 (A.P.).—Early higher prices and moderate trading characterized the bond market today. Over-the-counter trading was active most of the time, but slackened toward the close of trading on the stock exchange when a settling tendency appeared in some issues.

Gains were concentrated pretty much among Latin-American and railroad obligations. The upturn in Argentine, Brazilian, Rio Grande do Sul, Sao Paulo, Rio de Janeiro and Chilean loans ranged from fractions to 13 points. The latter gain, which was scored by the State of Sao Paulo 8s of 1950, was exceptional, but net advances of 2 to 3 points were common in this group. Tangible reasons for this strength were not forthcoming. European issues fluctuated irregularly. German 5½s of 1965 jumped 1½ points on larger sales than any other bond. The trend in German utility, industrial, municipal and other issues was much less confident.

Second grade rail obligations also scored a number of the net gains although some of them reacted somewhat toward the close of trading. Erie Refunding and Improvement 5s, Erie General Lien 4s, Missouri Pacific Series "A" 5½s, Southern General 6½s and St. Louis, San Francisco Series "A" 6s closed higher but below the top levels of the day. Rails as a group closed irregularly higher.

Public utility and industrial bonds were usually steady. Such changes as occurred among them were generally narrow and divided about evenly between gains and declines. Sporadic activity in these groups cropped out among such issues as Consolidated Gas of New York 4½s, Interborough Rapid Transit Stamped 5s, National Dairy Products 5½s, Public Service Electric & Gas 4s, of 1971, Philadelphia Electric 4s, of 1971, Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s and Western Union 5s of 1960. Most of these issues were firm or higher.

Loans of the United States Government fluctuated narrowly and irregularly.

NATS, OUTHIT, WIN, 9-3, SWEEP SERIES WITH CHISOX

Crowder, Free With Hits, Holds Foes in Check After Caraway Yields Big Lead

Doubles by West and Harris in 3d Wipe Out 1-Run Lead.

8 Passes, 2 Errors by Kerr Figure in Nats' Scoring.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

CECIL PAT CARAWAY, Chicago's rookie southpaw, who was pounded out of the box early in his first start against the Nationals, declared he simply had had a bad day on that occasion and asked for another chance yesterday. He got it, but did not prove his case, for the Washington Club beat him again, sweeping the four-game series with a 9-to-3 victory.

"General" Alvin Crowder opposed the left-hander on the hill and, although he went the route for the second time this season and was the ninth successive Nat pitcher to do so, he does not deserve a great deal of credit except, possibly, for wiggling out of tight holes. The Nats, held to ten safeties, were outhit.

Crowder granted the aliens fourteen hits, at least one in every inning, three in one and two in three other rounds, and was in hot water much of the time, no less than twelve White Sox being left on the bases. While Caraway held the Nats to ten hits, he issued eight passes and hit one, with two costly errors by Johnny Kerr also figuring prominently in the native run-scoring.

Mates Give Crowder Commanding Lead.

The Sox started off as if the Nats were in for a bad day, but Crowder checked them long enough for his mates to give him a commanding lead. After that, he confined his worries to preventing the Sox from having any of those "big" innings.

Of all of their threats, the visitors were able to cash in on but three. They jumped in front temporarily by molding a run in the first on Watwood's single, Fothergill's useful out, and Fonseca's one-baser to left. The Nats waited until the third before breaking into the scoring column and then counted three times, adding to their lead at intervals thereafter.

The first Washington splurge, staged in the third, consisted of a walk, a single by Cronin and doubles by Harris and West, all of the run-making hits coming after two were out.

In the fifth, singles by Bine, Fothergill and Fonseca made the score 3 to 2, and the Nationals got this run back in their half, the result of Cronin's triple and Harris' long fly, and then put the game on ice in the next frame, when they registered four times.

Kerr's Two Errors Figure in Runs.

All of the blame for this outburst can not be placed on Caraway's shoulders, although he walked one and granted three hits, for two errors were charged to Kerr and, with perfect fielding, the Nats would have scored but once and possibly twice. Spencer started the rally by doubling to left with one out and he scored on Kerr's first miscue, a bad peg over first after making a good stop on Crowder's hot bounder. Myer hit into a force-play, stole second and counted on Manush's three-base blow

TRIBE FACES FISCHER IN OPENER

Revamped Cleveland Club Invades for 4-Game Series.

PECKINPAUGH'S Cleveland Indians, who, after losing thirteen in a row, turned a complete flip-flop and won ten straight to pull up from nowhere to only a step behind the third-place Yankees, visit the Capital today and will be the Nats' guests this afternoon and through Saturday.

It will be the Tribe's first visit of the season here and Peckinpaugh is bringing a revamped team which should force the Washington Club to put its best foot forward to do better than break even; indeed, the Nats can not do any loafing and get as well as an even break.

Carl Fischer, brilliant young southpaw, will be seeking his seventh victory as he toes the slab this afternoon, with Willis Hudlin Peckinpaugh's most likely mound choice. It is "Sad Sam" Jones' turn to pitch, but the wear and tear of his last performance, a five-hit affair which the Tigers won in the eleventh, has left a few kinks in his aged salary wing and he has been excused, and his rest may extend until the third or the final game of the set.

President Clark Griffith last night denied reports coming from Gettysburg College to the effect that the Nationals had signed Pitcher Lefty Haas, who has starred on the hill

MACKS BEAT TIGERS, 12-3, BY RALLY

Score 10 Runs in 7th and 8th; Harris Plays Full Game.

PHILADELPHIA, June 9 (A.P.).—Aided by Manager Bucky Harris, who had not played a full game from the time he left Washington in 1928 up to yesterday, the Detroit Tigers offered a real threat to the Athletics for six innings today. But they weakened in the last two, and Philadelphia won, 12 to 3, to sweep the four-game series.

A hit by Harris started the Tigers off ahead in the third inning and Detroit held a 3-to-2 lead going into the last half of the seventh. The world's champions piled up six blows with a couple of Tiger errors to score five runs in the seventh, driving Tom Bridges from the mound. Then they added five more runs off Relief Pitcher Waite Hoyt in the eighth. Harris removed himself for a pinch hitter in the ninth inning.

George Earnshaw gave the Tigers only six hits in winning his ninth game of the season and made four himself, one of them a home run.

Klein's 14th Homer Helps Phils Beat Bucs

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 9 (A.P.).—Chuck Klein, hitting his fourteenth homer of the season, won a ball game for Philadelphia over the Pittsburgh Pirates today, 7-3.

When Klein came up in the fifth, there were runners on first and second, two out and his club trailing by one run. His circuit clout put the Phillies in the lead and they were not headed again, adding two in the eighth and one in the ninth. Dudley started for the Phillies, Watt replaced him in the sixth, and Jim Elliott finished the game. Brame went the route for the Pirates.

Court Declines to Act On Appeal Against Bout

Columbus, Ohio, June 9 (A.P.).—The attempt of David Fischer, of Cleveland, to enjoin the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling heavyweight title bout there July 3 was brought to an end today when the State supreme court refused to consider before its summer vacation Fischer's proposed appeal from a lower court decision in which his plea for an injunction was denied. After the supreme court's refusal was made, attorneys for Fischer said the proposed appeal would not be filed.

Fischer's suit had contended the championship bout would be a prize fight, illegal in Ohio. Common pleas court held, however, it would be legal as a "boxing exhibition."

The supreme court will not return from its summer vacation until late in September.

MISS ORCUTT ADVANCES ABROAD

Wins First Test in British Match Play by 5 Up and 4.

PORTMARNOCK, Ireland, June 9 (A.P.).—Led by Miss Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J., who took only fourteen holes to win her first-round match, all favorites advanced today in the British ladies' golf championship.

Miss Orcutt, playing a steady game on the soggy fairways and inundated greens, disposed of Mrs. Donald Soulby, five and four. The American girl was never behind after the first hole, which she lost, squaring the match on the second hole and then winning two more to give her a lead she held through the first nine.

Orcutt Shoots Par On 14th Hole.

Starting the last nine, Miss Orcutt won the tenth hole, halved the eleventh and twelfth and then finished the match on the fourteenth with a par exhibition after Mrs. Soulby had driven a ball into a water-filled bunker to make her a present of the thirteenth.

Keeping step with the American girl was Miss Diana Fishwick, the defending champion—who gained her title last year with a surprising victory over the United States champion, Glenna Collett—Enid Wilson, the English champion, and Molly Gourlay.

Miss Fishwick, who was expected to have considerable trouble with Miss Rhoma Rabbige, champion of Middlesex, gave her supporters something to cheer about with a clean-cut five and three victory. Miss Wilson won almost as easily from Miss P. Russell-Montgomery, the former Scottish champion, four and three. Miss Gourlay had the closest call, winning from Mrs. J. H. Todd on the home green, one up.

Wilson, Orcutt Likely to Meet.

Miss Wilson and Miss Orcutt are in the top quarter of the first half and are favored to meet in the quarter-finals Thursday.

The weather was greatly improved today, but the links were in poor condition from the rain of the last few days, the bunkers full of water and pools still showing in the fairways and on many of the greens.

Dog Race Track Doomed With Gambling Immoral Except for Well-to-Do

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, June 9.—Mr. Eddie Roberts, whom I have known here and there for ten years and more, always finding him engaged in one thing or another, but always hustling for a few dollars, has opened a park on Long Island, where, until further notice, the racing greyhound, which has a receding profile and almost no brain-pan, will chase the mock rabbit around a circle.

The patrons will wager small amounts on the dog races, just as the patrons of the neighboring horse tracks wager larger amounts on the horses, and I anticipate that in a very short time somebody claiming to represent 18,000,000 or 20,000,000 American wives and mothers will be calling on the sheriff and the prosecutor and demanding that they put a stop to this on the ground that the dog races are nothing but a gambling device, as, of course, they are.

Morally Wrong Except For Well-to-Do.

It is quite likely that the dog races will be stopped, because public opinion seems to have decided and certain Legislatures have definitely held that gambling is a moral wrong, except on the part of the well-to-do. The dog race is the poor man's horse race, and it is, therefore, an evil device, but the horse race, which is the same device, except that the horses carry jockeys and are conducted for exactly the same purpose, is the sport of kings.

It is often argued that horse racing is primarily intended to improve the breed of horses, but Exterminator, one of the greatest race horses of the present generation, has no hope of posterity. But the lip-spiel is like the vow of the American citizen when he goes to get a passport with Scotch on his breath and swears to maintain the Constitution, including the amendments, without mental reservations, so help him.

At Mr. Roberts' dog track the public is forbidden to make any wager on the outcome of any race, but if there were no bookmakers present to take bets by the so-called oral system there would be no interest in the races, and the customers would not come.

Bets Also Forbidden At Belmont Park.

Similarly, at Belmont Park, not far from Mr. Roberts' dog track, the public is forbidden to wager on any race and, similarly, the bookmakers occupy their daily stands, taking bets by the so-called oral system, to maintain the customer's interest. In fact, the bookmakers at the horse tracks in New York pay a daily royalty, or license fee, and any one who does not believe this need only take up a stand and try to accept bets on the oral system without first making the necessary arrangements.

76's by Trio Tie Lead at Columbia

Howell, Hunter and Roesch Figure in 6-Way Deadlock.

Many Stars in Field Today as Qualifying Ends.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

WHEN the second day of qualifying in the Columbia Club invitation tournament ended yesterday afternoon, 374 contestants had played, leaving a field of 192 to compete in the final round today. Of the number who have already played a large majority failed to turn in their cards, but there were 12 who were 79 and under, while 84 were 80 and under. The outlook is that cards under 80 will be necessary to qualify in the first sixteen, with 86 or 87 qualifying in the fifth and last sixteen.

On the first day of qualification, scores of 76 by Volney Burnett, Beaver Dam, and C. M. Merrill, unattached, led the field and while this figure was threatened yesterday no player was able to dislodge it from the lead, although it was tied by William R. Howell, youthful Richmond golfer, who is Middle Atlantic champion and winner of the Columbia Club event last year; J. Monro Hunter, jr., Indian Spring, and Frank K. Roesch, Washington, District amateur champion.

Good Field Starts Today.

In the field which plays today, there are several golfers who may be bette rthan 76, the list including Harry G. Pitt, Manor; Walter R. McCallum, Washington, the medalist in his home club tournament; Thomas P. Bones, jr., James G. Drain, winner of the Washington event; Earl McAleer, former national public links medalist; Austin M. Porter, a non-resident member of Columbia Club, who arrived yesterday from Wilmington to participate in the tournament; John J. Tierney, jr., Congressional, and Thomas W. Sasscer, former Maryland State champion.

Besides those leading players there are many who undoubtedly will make their round in the 80s and thus crowd out those who are now on the ragged edge with 87s and 88s.

The various rounds yesterday were lacking in thrills, a notable exception being when Everett Eynon, champion of the Columbia Club, and Roesch, District champion, who played together as partners, ran down long putts for birdie 3s on the eighteenth green, thereby winning the applause of a large gallery. Roesch's putt tied him for the medal with 76. J. Monro Hunter, jr., also with 76, was equally fortunate, holding out a 12-footer on the home green for a birdie 3.

Howell Within Ball's Turn Of Taking Lead.

Howell, who was confidently expected to break 76, was out in 40, with three-putt greens on the second, third and fifth oles, but happily holed a 10-footer on the seventeenth for a birdie 3. On the eighteenth green he approached so close to the cup that one turnover of the ball would have given him a birdie 3 for a 75. Eynon finished the last six holes in 4-4-4-3-3-3, but even with this spectacular homecoming his total was 78.

The cards of the three leaders yesterday:

Out—Howell..	4	5	5	3	7	4	4	3	5	—40
Hunter.....	5	5	4	3	7	4	4	3	5	—38
Roesch.....	5	3	7	3	6	5	4	3	5	—41

Hunter.....	4	6	5	3	4	4	3	3	4	—36—76
Roesch.....	4	5	5	3	4	3	4	3	4	—35—76

When it became evident that any card over 90 was hopelessly out of the running the failure to turn in scores became almost universal. While all the players complimented the fine condition of the course, for the greens were accurate and the fairways afforded perfect lies, they were handicapped by the cold northwest wind which blew a gale and caused the new ball to perform in freaky fashion.

All the contestants, facing the wind on the outward journey, had high scores for the first nine, but literally came breezing home with the wind behind them. The most remarkable reversal of form, however, was shown by the card of Col. Eugene R. West, who took 50 strokes for the first nine and then came romping home in 38.

The cards under 100 yesterday were as follows:

76—Wm. R. Howell, Hermitage C. C., Richmond, Va.; Frank K. Roesch, Washington; J. Monro Hunter, jr., Indian Spring.
77—Nathan Poole, Columbia.
78—Everett Eynon, Columbia.
79—J. J. Lynch, Argyle; M. Parker Nolan, Congressional.
80—Maurice Nee, Manor.
81—W. R. Donham, Glen Ridge; S. T.

Reds Defeat Braves, 7-2, Winning Series

Cincinnati, June 9 (A.P.).—The Reds made it three out of four against Boston today, winning, 7 to 2, behind Benny Frey's five-hit pitching. It was the first game Frey pitched since a bone in his throwing arm was chipped several weeks ago.

Harvey Hendrick, the Reds' substitute first baseman and the league's leading batter, got three hits, one a triple, while Nick Cullop hit Moss for a double and a home run over the left-field fence.

Six Brooklyn Pitchers Hammered by Cards

St. Louis, June 9 (A.P.).—Some effective relief pitching by Allan Stout and an eighteen-hit assault of six Brooklyn pitchers gave the Cardinals an 8-5 victory over Brooklyn Robins today. The Cardinals won the series 3 games to 1.

Stout came in after a drive off Herman's bat had injured Jess Haines' pitching hand in the third inning and held the Robins in check. Luque, Brooklyn's starting pitcher, was banished for protesting Umpire Donnolly's decisions in the third, and Heimach, Clark, Mattingly, Moore and Quinn followed him on the mound. Heimach was the victim of St. Louis' 3-run rally in the fifth that won the game.

M. BAGGETT UNDERGOES OPERATION

Alexandria Sport Star Attacked by Appendicitis.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., June 9.—Marshall Baggett, track captain of William and Mary College in 1930, and star quarter-miler and hurdle man this past season, who graduated with honors yesterday, was rushed to the Alexandria Hospital this morning suffering from an attack of appendicitis.

He was operated on by Dr. C. A. Amos at 11 o'clock and his condition is reported as favorable. Baggett is well known in this sector not only for his athletic ability, but also for the part he has taken in dramatics.

He is son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Baggett, of 18 West Maple street.

Bobby Darley, versatile player with the Columbia fighters, is establishing a new record for consecutive play in sand-lot games.

Darley has performed in 35 innings. He played three games Sunday, one with the Carter Motor nine, two with the Columbias, and yesterday again played with the Carter Motor Team.

The firefighters' star catches and plays third base. He is one of the leading baseball players in the city.

An important baseball practice will be held by the St. Mary's Celtics on Thursday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in Baggett's Stadium. Coach Art Ludlow requests all players to report.

Sunday the Celtics will hook-up with Henry Hiser's crack Hyattsville nine.

Billy Schwartz, Alexandria light-heavyweight boxer, is training daily. Schwartz will probably appear on a card at Fort Washington within the next three weeks.

Frankie Mann, his manager, hopes to pit the "Baker Boy" against a tough opponent.

Giants Defeat Cubs; Return to 2d Place

Chicago, June 9 (A.P.).—The New York Giants pounded their way back into second place in the National League standing today, gathering a total of eighteen hits off three Chicago pitchers to defeat the Cubs, 10 to 2. The teams divided the four games of the series.

Lester Sweetland was driven from the mound in the second inning as the Giants scored six of their runs in the first two frames and was charged with his first defeat of the season.

Bill Terry led the New York attack with two triples, a double and a single, while Mel Ott hit a homer and three singles. Stephenson and Hartnett each got three of the eight hits off Bill Morrell.

PECK, PLEASED WITH CLUB, IS PUZZLED BY INCONSISTENCY

Spurt Dates From Deal For Kamm

Strengthened Infield; Peck Is Building Young Club.

Sees Nats as Better Balanced Than A's; Lack Stars.

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR.

NEW YORK, June 9 (A.P.).—Roger Peckinpaugh surveyed the rain-swept roof tops from the fortieth floor and remarked: "We're halfway through the East and still going great. I wish I knew what's going to happen."

The glance from Peck's deep-set eyes indicated that the manager of the Cleveland Indians had something very puzzling on his mind.

"I've got a club that nobody in this world can tell about for sure," he said. "All I know is that it's a great young team, capable of giving all of them a fight.

Tribe Has Won 12 Of Last 14 Games.

"But we've already had one serious slump, and who can tell when there'll be another? That last time we all just quit hitting at once and the pitchers lost their effectiveness. Now we're hitting on all six again. Won twelve of our last fourteen. I'd like to predict we'll mop up Washington, starting tomorrow, and then take the Athletics, but every time I make a prediction it goes wrong."

Peck regards Washington as a better balanced club than the Athletics "but they don't have a Simmons or a Foxx or a Grove," he explained very simply.

"One thing I've got," he declared, "is the best first year man in either league. Joe Vosmik is as promising a youngster as I ever saw. He has hit like a veteran ever since I put him in the line-up, and he has surprised me with his fielding.

"He had a slump, just like all of them. That is, all of them except Earl Averill. Earl was the only one who went right on hitting through those twelve straight losses."

Peck Pleased With Kamm Deal.

As the arrival of Willie Kamm to play third base was almost coincident with the start of the Indians' present winning streak, Peckinpaugh naturally is pleased with the deal that brought him from the White Sox in Exchange for Lew Fonseca.

"Our chief weakness was the left side of the infield, and Kamm has strengthened us a lot. Fonseca was playing great ball for me, but I couldn't use him and Eddie Morgan both on first base. Besides, Morgan is younger."

That last pretty well reveals Peckinpaugh's whole scheme. He is determined to build a young club.

The Indians, incidentally, believe they have found the source of the "hitch" in Wes Ferrell's pitching arm. The crack right-hander has complained of a slight pain ever since he pitched that no-hitter against the Browns and has been forced to go easy with his fast ball.

It was, as you probably guessed, a fractious tooth. They had it repaired the other day and Wes said his arm felt "swell" after he let the Yankees down with three hits.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Washington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

WASHINGTON PARK, Chicago, June 9.—The entire card at Washington Park is devoted to the cheaper grade of platers tomorrow. From a class standpoint, the fifth event, named the Cottage Grove, a test over the mile course for 3-year-olds and upward, will serve as the feature.

The remaining races will bring together some evenly matched fields to contest the purses over the slow track, and the fans should witness some keenly contested races.

Only five were named to face the barrier in the main attraction, but it appears an open race with many angles to consider. On recent form, H. M. Wolf's DARK SEA, a winner over this track, is the logical choice. The Traumer colt scored easily in his winning effort over the mile and an eighth route, and at the mile distance here figures to carry his speed to victory. The one to fear will be GALAHAD. This speedy Reuter gelding displayed a return to his best form last start to gain a nose decision over the highly regarded MATA. The latter is favored to gain the show.

FIRST RACE—The first event on the card which brings together 20 maiden juvenile fillies should result in a victory for COUSIN JUDY. This clever miss from the Tennessee Stable raced consistently at Aurora and just missed brackets. She should graduate from this band of nonwinners. SANS COIN has trained briskly and will force the pace. SABINA H., from the J. Lowenstein Stable, should hold the others safe.

SECOND RACE—Twenty of the older platers will match strides in the 6 furlongs of the second event. FOX BELT has been freshened up, and, judging from morning works, is ready for a winning effort. Chief opposition should come from MARDIE, a recent arrival from New York. This clever plater fancies the slow track and should go well. PANCHIO is another fast worker and is given the show call.

THIRD RACE—In the 6-furlong sprint of the third, THUNDER CALL appears best of the twenty named to contest the issue. This fleet Jones 5-year-old favors the track conditions and will be difficult to beat. THE OKAH has not been to the races in some time, but is reported in fit condition and is given the place call, with EVERY TIME, from the L. B. Carbone string, as the show selection.

FOURTH RACE—ALLENFERN, a fast-stepping juvenile in the J. P. Jones string, and a winner at this eval, is fancied to lead home his nine rivals in the 5½ furlongs of the fourth heat. The Assagai gelding raced prominently in his last effort against better company. MEMORANDUM has shown a liking for a slow track and should furnish the opposition. ET CETERA is given the show call, with OH DAVE an outside possibility.

SIXTH RACE—An even dozen routers will be dispatched over the 1⅛ miles in the sixth event. DARK ENTRY, from the H. P. Headley Stable, weakened in his last start, but figures to improve enough to take down the purse. BOB ROGERS faltered in his last 6-furlong sprint, but will appreciate the added distance and should extend the top one. WEE DROP has a nice turn of speed but may not favor the route. However, the Baroni racer should last to save the show.

SEVENTH RACE—In the concluding event, a test over the 1¼-mile distance, twenty platers will face the barrier. CHANCELLOR has shown consistent ability over a slow track and on recent efforts is selected to annext the purse. FAIRMAN is favored to force the pace with CURTSEY as the show selection.

HUNT, RITZENBERG IN BOYS' NET FINAL

Allnutt Bows In Semifinal Round

Willis, Perkins, Daly, Smith in Junior Semifinals.

Smith Impresses in Beating Drown in Two 6-1 Sets.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

DISPLAYING, at times, tennis of a sort which would know no rejoinder even against a seasoned opponent, Gilbert Hunt yesterday afternoon entered the final round of the District boys' championship with a straight set victory over "Petie" Allnutt, 6—1, 8—6, while Bob Smith, the foreboding young net star from St. John's was disposing of a youth, Dick Drown, who, as Tilden's ball boy, has been exposed to more good tennis than any boy in the country.

Downright carelessness on the part of Hunt, and a sort of unflagging industry on the part of his rival, made for the score of 6—1, 8—6, by which Hunt entered the final bracket. Hunt seemed to proffer about one fifth of his potential strength, and frequently fell into the same style of hitting the ball which his unlettered in the ways of tennis opponent did.

Hunt Breezes Through First Set.

By striking out for the lines, and mixing his game well, Hunt had no trouble in the first set, but trailed 1-3 in the second, only to breeze to 5—4 and then toss away the chance of ending the match, and permitting it to go to extra games.

Certainly at times, Hunt would have taken the measure of a majority of the senior players in Washington. He rammed his Allison-like service into courts with great speed, on occasions, and showed strength off either side in backcourt driving. At the net he tried, and tries, many too many drop volleys and overhead he might be even better if he were to depend on more speed and less placement, for the time being.

Today Hunt is favored to win his first boys crampionship, being slated to meet Nathan Ritzenberg in the final round at 3 o'clock at the Reservoir courts on Sixteenth street. Ritzenberg, one of the steadiest kids in the business, probably will give him a real battle, and perhaps will win, if Hunt lapses into a spell of his patented lackadaisicality.

Smith Gives Warning To Rivals.

In joining Ricky Willis, Al Perkins nd Charles Daly in the semifinal round of the junior division, Bob Smith again proved that he must be considered seriously in any final round reckoning. Smith displayed a methodical type of game, hitting for the openings and relying on superior steadiness to do away with Drown, and won by the decisive score of 6—1, 6—1.

The opening round or doubles produced nothing in the way of an upheaval of form. The top seeded pair of Daly and Willis showed excellent volleying strength and fairly consistent backcourt dexterity in beating Perkins and DeLand, 6—2, 6—1.

Play today will be dominated by the Hunt-Ritzenberg match and the semifinal bouts in the junior singles division, which bring together Daly and Perkins and Willis and Smith. Only one doubles match will be played and that between the team of Glassie and Dial and Nicholson and Drown.

The singles matches start at 3 o'clock.

G. U. Golf and Net Teams Picked for National Play

Four Washington Youths Comprise Squad in Tennis Intercollegiates at Merion June 22; Linksmen Play at Chicago.

DRAWING heavily upon its Washington athletes, Georgetown University yesterday selected the personnel of the tennis and golf teams which will carry the Blue and Gray into national collegiate championship tournaments late this month.

Four Washington youths take up the full complement of the tennis squad that is slated to compete at Merion, Pa., beginning June 22. They are Captain-elect Dooly Mitchell, who recently won the City of Washington singles championship, and who held the No. 2 position on the Hilltop net team during the regular intercollegiate season; Clyde Yeoman, a brother of Ed Yeomans, North Carolina University star; Fred Doyle, of the well-known local family of tennising Doyles, and Walter Berberich, whose racquet activity locally has been confined chiefly to the courts of Georgetown.

Beger Leads Golfers To Chicago.

The golf team is composed of Capt. Fred J. Beger, Newark, N. J.; Richard Wilson, Southern Pines, N. C., and Louis J. Fisher and Peter Monahan, both of Detroit. This group will see action in Chicago, starting on the same day as the tennismen.

Those in charge of picking the Hilltop teams are of the opinion that their chances of securing one or both of the titles are fairly good. Mitchell is the main reliance in regard to the tennis championship, while any one of the four golfers is considered a potential title winner.

Mitchell last year reached the round of 16 in the tennis tournament in his debut in that competition. In his second appearance he will face a field virtually as strong as that of last year although Cliff Sutter, 1930 champion, has relinquished his crown to play with the Davis Cup team. Outstanding among the aspirants to the throne are Ellsworth Vines and Dolf Muelhausen, of Southern California; Keith Gledhill, of Stanford; Wilmer Hines and Bryan Grant, both of North Carolina University, and Eddie Jacobs, of Pittsburgh.

Mangin Defeated in 1930 Finals.

Georgetown has never produced a national college tennis champion, but with Gregory Mangin last year almost captured the title, Mangin bowing in the final match to Sutter. However, in golf the Hilltop furnished a champion in 1928 when Maurice McCarthy, then a sophomore, took the crown in an upset of the dope.

The individual golf championship is held by Dunlap, of Princeton, who will defend his honor, while the team title is a Princeton possession, also. Findlay, of Harvard; Aycock, of Yale, and Moeller, of Notre Dame, are among the best known challengers.

Nat Hurlers Have Gone Route in Last 9 Games

Baseball statisticians are scratching their heads these days trying to figure out whether or not the Nationals have smashed any records in their pitching streak, still unbroken, which has seen their starting hurler go the full route in the last nine games played. It so happens that records of this kind are not shown in the "histories" and no one knows the correct answer. It is hardly likely that this is an all-time record, but it is one which has not even been approached this season.

Behind this good pitching, Manager Johnson's charges have played fine ball and have a record of eight victories in eleven games since they returned. Unfortunately for them, however, the Mackmen have gone them one better over the same period, having lost three but won nine.

deal that had all the aspects of a "steal" on the part of the Nats.

Shires figured in another deal during his big league career that added to the mysteries of big league trafficking in players. When the Nats traded Red Barnes to the White Sox in midsummer in a deal that was announced as a straight player swap, Washington gained a great right-handed hitter for a man who was unable to make the grade in three seasons here. It looked like another "steal" for Griffith until the illuminating announcement that the Nats had obtained Shires in a trade for Braxton and Tate. That evened up matters all around and compensated the White Sox for the Harris-Barnes swap. Some of these player deals in the big league have more angles than Article X of the League of Nations.

to right and the latter registered when Kerr "booted" Cronin's bad hopper. Harris then doubled the shortstop home and ended the round by trying to pilfer third.

Each team scored once in the eighth, but these markers did not mean anything.

Harris, with two doubles; Cronin, with a triple and single, and Bluege, with a double and one-baser, led the home guards on attack, while Fonseca's three singles gave him alien hitting honors.

FISCHER TO OPPOSE TRIBE IN 1ST GAME

for the Bullets for three seasons. Haas won 15 games and lost 3 this season and has decided to take a fling at professional baseball.

"Coach Ira Plank, brother of Eddie, former great pitcher, was here to see me a few days ago trying to get me to give Haas a trial with the Washington Club," said Griffith, "but I suggested that he start the pitcher in slower company and recommended him to Hagerstown. The chances are that this club signed him. If Haas develops there and we want him, we probably can get him because of a working agreement Washington has with the Hagerstown Club."

The Chisox, who introduced Pitcher "Little Ed" Walsh to the majors, yesterday started another son of an illustrious dad when "Young Billy" Sullivan took his place in right field. Sullivan, who graduated from Notre Dame last Sunday, is the son of Billy Sullivan, who used to catch for the White Sox when they were known as the "hitless wonders" and when such great flingers as "Uncle Nick" Altrock, "Doc" White and Ed Walsh were in their prime.

"Young Billy," a strapping lad much larger than his dad, has been playing first for Notre Dame, where he made quite a reputation for himself as a hitter. He bats left handed and was credited with one safety. Afield, he played Manush's triple quite poorly.

Bluege showed rare speed in throwing out Fothergill at first in the opening round. He took a deflected grasser from Crowder's glove with his bare hand and followed through with an underhand peg to nail the runner easily.

Manager Donie Bush shifts his infield around so frequently that it is a wonder the players do not get mixed up and take their place in the wrong position. Kerr started at third yesterday and Fonseca at second. On the first play in the home half of the opener, Kerr went almost to second to make a nice catch of Myer's pop.

Bennie Tate, former Nat, finally started a game here, getting the call because Crowder, a right-hander, toiled on the hill for the Nats. Grube draws the assignment, when southpaws oppose the Sox.

When Bluege singled with two dead in the second, the blow being the first Nat safety of the game, it was his seventh successive hit in as many official trips to the tee. Ending Sunday's game, he hit safely twice and then walked and he was credited with four in four Monday, walking once in this contest.

When Cronin singled in the third, driving home Myer to add to his league lead for runs batted in, it extended his consecutive-game hitting streak to seventeen.

Harris' double in round three was fair by a matter of inches, it bounding into the stands in right. Cronin was on first at the time, but a ground rule limited all advances to two sacks.

"Fat" Fothergill made a diving catch to rob Spencer of a hit in the fourth. He rolled over like a barrel after the grab, but came up with the ball in his glove.

GRADUATION IS HELD AT U. OF RICHMOND

Commencement Address by Dr. M. O. Hudson Tells Citizenship Needs.

Richmond, Va., June 9 (A.P.).—Manley O. Hudson, Bemis professor of international law, Harvard Law School, in the commencement address of the University of Richmond, said tonight that if Americans are going to play their role as citizens of the age they must see the United States as a part of a larger world, and see the world as a whole society.

He said that he was not recommending an abstract attitude, but asserted that upon the citizen's conception of his wold will depend his attitude toward such strictly national questions as agricultural relief and the tariff. Upon it, he said, would depend also the Nation's attitude toward the organization of the world for cooperation and peace.

Will Affect World Court.

"A knowledge of our world, and a desire to keep America playing a worthy role in it, will of course affect our consideration of such problems as those of our relation to the League of Nations," he said. "It will affect what we decide to do with the proposal made by the President and the Secretary of State eight years ago and supported by three Presidents and three Secretaries of State since, that America should give her support to the maintenance of the World Court It will determine whether meaning will be given to the solemn covenant renouncing war as an instrument of national policy which almost all of the world has signed on our invitation. It will influence our decision as to whether the world shall return to a practice of maintaining backbreaking armaments in time of peace which may be an ever-powerful provocative of war. And, what is quite important, it will produce the measure of the respect in which America will be held throughout the world."

Education Is Essential.

The speaker said that the common promise of the day is that education is going to solve the social and political problems confronting the generation. However, he asserted that the formula, "Education or catastrophe," was based on two assumptions—that the informed opinion of educated men is bound to prevail over the uninformed opinion of their untutored fellows and that education alone will produce a capacity to understand and govern.

"Education and catastrophe may march hand in hand," said Dr. Hudson. "We must guard against assuming either that educated men will always prevail in councils concerning our public affairs, or, indeed, that they ought to prevail in all. We can not be too critical of the premises which underlie our education nor too inquiring as to their usefulness to the world of our times. But with these caveats I think we need entertain no doubt that education is essential to citizenship in a modern world and that many of our problems can not be met without it."

POLICE GIVEN RULES IN PRINCE GEORGES

New Force Hears Duties Outlined on Eve of Beginning Work.

Regulations governing the new Prince Georges County police force were explained to the members yesterday in a meeting held immediately after they had been sworn in by Summerfield D. Hall, clerk of the court.

There are twelve regulations, and the first provides that no policeman shall drink while on duty, or in uniform. The second states that all policemen shall be on call at all times, and the sergeants are also given authority to act for the chief, Jeremiah Crowley, who explained the rules.

The regulations also state that every policeman shall have a certain specified territory to cover, but that he is subject to being moved at any time. Other rules stress the necessity of cooperation between members of the force, and state that no insubordination will be tolerated. Charges of collusion against policemen will be heard before the board of county commissioners.

The new force is urged to be cautious at all times, to use force only when necessary, and to be sparing in their use of firearms. They are also warned not to loiter in poolrooms, garages or bowling alleys while on duty, unless necessary.

Another of the regulations states that when possible, prisoners must be taken before the justice of the peace of the district in which they are arrested.

The new force will begin to function as soon as phones can be installed in the two offices, one in Hyattsville and one in Marlboro. The Hyattsville office will be in the new county building there and will probably open today. The Marlboro office is temporarily in the police courtroom, and will also be ready today if phones are installed.

The regulations were drawn up by Chief Crowley and were adopted by the county commissioners. It is expected that supplementary regulations will be added in the near future. The present rules were drafted after a study of those in force among Montgomery County police.

No definite assignments of territory have been made for the men, except that Sergt. A. W. Hepburn will be in charge of the Marlboro station. It is thought likely, however, that the policemen, who are drawn from all parts of the county, will be assigned to duty near their homes so far as is possible.

The town budget of Hyattsville will be $27,040 for the coming year, and the tax rate has been set at 55 cents per hundred, a decrease of 15 cents. This rate is expected to bring in $23,800 in taxes, with about $1,000 more from other sources.

On the town's assessed value of $4,250,000, taxes will net about $23,000. The town has a balance of $7,500, and $500 more is expected to result from fines. Rent of the municipal building will be $100, licenses $400, and the franchise tax, $165, giving a total with the surplus from last year of $32,465. This will leave the town more than $5,000 for emergencies or a reserve.

Street lighting, at a cost of $5,300, is the largest single expenditure. Traffic lights where Johnson and Franklin streets join the Baltimore boulevard, will cost $2,000. It is hoped that the State will install a light at the entrance to the overhead bridge. Police protection will cost $2,700, with a chief and one bailiff. Although there is authority for more town policemen, it is thought that two will be enough, as the county station will be in the town.

Other expenses in the budget are: Fire Department, $3,000; garbage and trash removal, $3,600; interest on road notes, $2,800; treasurer's commission, $2,000; library, $1,300; parks and playgrounds, $1,000; assessors, $150; auditors, $100; health officer, $75; tax records and assessment rolls, $300; election expenses, $400; office expenses, postage, &c., $250; health, $200; fuel for the municipal building, $125; repairs and furniture, $100; light and power, $200; legal work, $250; printing, $200; town clerk, $300; town attorney, $240; miscellaneous, $250.

Floyd B. Mathias, town councilman of Mount Rainier, was late yesterday freed by a jury on a charge of assault and battery on Charles J. Smith, a resident of the town.

The jury was out only a few minutes, although the trial took more than four hours. Smith and the councilman engaged in a fight in the town hall last January, and Smith was taken to Walter Reed Hospital shortly afterward suffering from pneumonia. He alleged that his ailment was due to the blows struck by Mathias. Mathias, on the other hand, said that he only struck the man lightly, and only after being struck by Smith.

The two men had been in an argument over work done by the town, which is said to have caused mud to run down over Smith's land. Mayor John H. Beall, Town Clerk B. E. Sager and Corporation Counsel Bird H. Dolb were called as witnesses by State Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer, attorney for Mathias.

Senator Sasscer, as attorney for Earl Blackwell, constable in Capitol Heights, also argued a demurrer yesterday in the charges of malfeasance made against the policeman. The court did not return a decision on the demurrer, however, postponing it until later.

Blackwell was indicted, he says, because he did not put a woman in jail, but kept her at his office until she could arrange for bond. Senator Sasscer argued that "jumping" a bond is no crime in Maryland, and therefore there was no reason to commit her to jail. He also said there was no evidence of a corrupt motive, which is necessary to prove malfeasance; that the warrant was bad, that the officer could use his judgment in carrying out the orders of a justice of the peace, and that there were no false representations, as alleged.

In the third case heard in court yesterday, James Medley, colored, was convicted of stealing a leather coat worth $12 from J. H. Anderson. Theodore Green, indicted with him, was acquitted. Medley, while out on bond on this charge, was arrested on a charge of horse-poisoning, but has not been indicted.

The trial of William Kappel, charged with assault with intent to kill on a Washington policeman and his brother, is set for this morning. Kappel is accused of being one of several men who attacked Laurits and Yens Christiansen during a fight at a notorious roadhouse. Laurits Christiansen is the policeman, and his brother a Coast Guardsman.

The commissioners received applications yesterday from C. W. Perrygo and Charles W. Roby for positions as constables. They will be appointed after their names have been advertised for 30 days, unless some objection is raised. Perrygo will be appointed for Oxon Hill District and Roby for Vansville.

The commissioners also received a letter from Elmer E. Parkinson, chairman of the board of Anne Arundel County commissioners, asking that petitions be circulated for a referendum on the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Railroad tax law.

If 10,000 names can be obtained to these petitions, the voters will be given a chance to express their will on the law passed by the recent Legislature, which allows the railroad to escape taxes for the next two years. The law was passed because the railroad was in the hands of receivers. The Prince Georges commissioners took no action on the letter.

An inquest will be held tomorrow night at Marlboro into the death of Henry Jones of Leland, who was killed Monday afternoon by a train near Hill's Station. Judge Thomas D Griffith is acting as coroner in the case. The crew of the train which struck the man, who was lying on the track, has not been arrested.

It would cost $2,250 to send postcards to all the readers that can be reached any morning by Post Classified Ads.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE SADDEST WORDS OF TONGUE OR PEN.

BAD advice has been mine to amazing degrees,
And I've had ample chance to regret it,
But the dreariest words, I consider, are these—
"You can put this away and forget it!"

I've known foolish suggestions galore in my time,
Each one getting my goat, if id let it,
But the one tip I now know was ne'er worth a dime
Was this: "Put it away and forget it!"

Bunk I've often heard fall from the lips of the wise
When the slightest horse-sense might upset it,
But this line I now name for the big booby prize—
"You can put this away and forget it!"

SAGES often have utired a judgment quite sad
And have lived to see facts badly wet it,
But oh, where was there ever advice quite as bad
As "Put this away and forget it?"
Silly counsel I've had, and it brought me dispair—
With the goofiest charts to abet it,
But I ask you, my friend, for a thing to compare
With "Just put it away and forget it!"

It's boloney like that that has cost me my dough
(And I now peddle apples to get it);
How I yearn for a sock at the big so-and-so
Who said, "Put this away and forget it!"

When he dies and his soul takes the slippery grade,
I am hoping it well worth a bet it
Won't take Satan so long to hand it to an did
And say, "Put this away . . . AND FORGET it!"

A JOB FOR A SENATOR.

COL. LINDBERGH is to take Mrs. Lindbergh on a flight to the Orient. The baby will be left with Senator and Mrs. Morrow. This is one of the occasions when an airplane suddenly appeals to all fathers of 1-year-old babies as a pretty swell possession.

Calvin Coolidge is going to give up writing his newspaper feature for a time, on the ground that he finds it wearisome work. That will give you a fair idea how life in the big cities softens up the backwoods boy.

HORSE racing and open betting openly arrived at has at last been legalized in Florida. Racing and betting were allowed there last winter, but it was all done by mirrors. You walked right up to the pari-mutuel windows and bet money on a horse. But you got a certificate bearing an explanation that what you were doing was buying a share of stock in the horse breeding business, or something. It will be refreshing to feel in Florida from how on that racing is racing and that betting is betting.

IT'S A GOOD TRICK—IF THEY DID IT.

"Four Put in Jail in Aviator's Suit."—Headline.

Washington says that the 5-cent cigar is coming back. But appearances are deceptive. It may be only the 10-cent cigar going out.

A way has been found to operate a pilotless airplane by radio. But we'd hate to be 3,500 feet in the air when the radio man was called away to answer the telephone.

VIRGINIA SUIT HITS POWER BODY STATUS

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., June 9.—Suit has been instituted in the Federal District Court here by the Appalachian Electric Power Co., a Virginia corporation, against the Federal Power Commission, in which the company is asking the court to declare unconstitutional a portion of the Federal act creating the power board, which has taken jurisdiction over tributaries to navigable streams which in themselves are not navigable.

Involved in this issue is the effort of the company to construct on New River in Pulaski County a dam and power house on property which has cost upward of $700,000, this being a portion of other property which represents, it is understood, an investment of several million dollars.

The bill sets out that New River, tributary to the Kanawha River, is not a navigable stream, and for that reason the Federal commission has no right to take jurisdiction over it.

License Is Declined.

It is shown that the power commission issued the company a license July 1, 1927, permitting the construction of the dam and its operation for a period of 50 years. The license was declined.

On November 25, 1930, the bill avers, the commission decided that in view of the importance of questions of juriadiction as between the United States and the State of Virginia, involved in this case, a court adjudication is desirable.

The company shows that it was ordered April 3, 1931, not to proceed with construction of its proposed plant after the complainant company had declined to accept the license offered by the power commission.

Suit Is Instituted.

Holding that the license tendered the company, by which the life of the license would be limited to 50 years, is beyond the power of the commission, the company has caused tife suit to be instituted.

The court is asked to declare unconstitutional section 23 of the Federal water power act so far as it authorizes the commission to require the complainant to accept any license for construction, operation and maintenance of said development.

Counsel of record for the company included John L. Abbot, Lynchburg; Newton D. Baker and Raymond T. Jackson, Cleveland, Ohio; John S. Draper, Pulaski, this State, and Curtis Mallet Prevost, Colt & Molse, of New York City.

DEAN POUND, GREEN MAY HEAD VIRGINIA

Names Are Being Discussed to Succeed Alderman, Educator Says.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 9.—A prominent educator who has just returned to the city from a trip North, where he spends much of his time, says he heard the names of two men mentioned as successor to Dr. Edwin A. Alderman as president of the University of Virginia—Jerome Green, of New York City, and Dr. Roscoe Pound, dean of the Yale Law School.

In the opinion of the educator, either of these men would prove a successful university executive, of the type needed at the University of Virginia. Mr. Green is a nephew of former President Charles W. Eliot, of Harvard, and is a member of the General Education Board. He is a scholar of high rank, as well as an educator and business man with high ideals.

Dr. Pound is generally regarded as one of the ablest men in educational circles in this country. He is said to possess in preeminent degree, the qualities needed in coping with the problems that would face a university executive.

Alumni of Jefferson's university are anxious that a right choice be made and feel confident that the members of the board of visitors of the institution will study very carefully the problems of the office and of the institution in connection with the question of choosing Dr. Alderman's successor.

It is generally felt that it is of first importance that the guidance of the university be entrusted to an individual able to build on the broad foundation laid down during Dr. Alderman's 27-year incumbency, to expand the university's power and usefulness without compromise of ideals and standards, and to consolidate its position as a citadel of sound instruction, intelligent experimentation and liberal thought.

Forger, Habitual Criminal, Sentenced.

Bridgeport, Conn., June 9 (A.P.).—William H. Harkins, forger and jail breaker wanted in several States, was found guilty late today of jail breaking here, and then pleaded guilty on a charge of being an habitual criminal. He was sentenced to State prison for nine to thirty years.

LOWDEN SEES HOPE IN SCIENTIFIC RULE

Washington and Lee Class Told Study Is Needed to Aid Recovery.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., June 9.—"When men shall have perfected their human relationships so as to bring them up to accomplishments of the material sciences, poverty can be abolished from the world," Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois, delivering the commencement address at Washington and Lee University, told graduates and guests here today.

Before nearly 180 candidates for degrees, Mr. Lowden pointed out that, although our representative government is now "on the defensive," its foes will be overcome and we shall emerge from depression when we have applied the same serious study to government and development of the social sciences which we have applied elsewhere to revolutionize the world."

Six representatives of American business and professional life received honorary doctorates at today's exercises. They were: The commencement orator, Marlen E. Pew, editor of Editor and Publisher, New York; Maj. Gen. John Archer Lejeune, superintendent of the Virginia Military Institute; William Thomas Reed, Richmond financier; Archibald Rutledge, poet and author, and the Rev. Vincent C. Franks, Lexington minister.

Bell Concludes School Year.

School ended at Washington and Lee with this morning's program, but the official student year will not end until after the final ball, which begins at 9 o'clock tonight and ends at sunrise tomorrow.

"Just as material sciences have vastly improved man's condition," Mr. Lowden explained, after briefly sketching the history of scientific education, "so the social sciences seem now to have entered upon a new career of usefulness to the world. The social sciences are beginning to apply the same method which has revolutionized the material sciences, and in them, I believe, is the best hope for future progress of our civilization."

The present business depression, caused by lack of balance in prices and waste in natural resources, he explained, may be overcome only when society is more perfectly articulated.

Government Needs Science Aid.

"Self-government, if it is to endure, must employ all the resources of the social sciences," Mr. Lowden reiterated. "It is hopeful as a sign of the times that political science especially is now concerned with actual facts of government. Just as business has grown away from the 'rule of the thumb' and employed scientific methods more and more, so the government must avail itself of all the knowledge that science can bring to the problems of government."
